POW Exchange Poses Thorny Issue

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel pressed Egypt and Syria for prisoner-of-war lists and a prisoner exchange Monday as the Israeli government came under fire at home for letting supplies get through to the stranded Egyptian 3rd Army.

Premier Golda Meir held up plans to return 2,000 wounded Arab POWs until the Arabs come up with a list of Israelis they captured in the war.

Maj. Gen. Shmuel Eyal said the Israeli government believes Egypt is holding about 350 Israelis and Syria about 100. He says Israel is willing to trade the 7,000 Arabs it captured for them.

The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram said Egypt informed U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim it will give the prisoner list to the International Red Cross, but there was no immediate comment from Israel.

Al-Ahram said Egypt made the promise while stressing to Waldheim "the necessity of Israeli troops withdrawing" to their positions when the first U.N. cease-fire went into effect Oct. 22.

An Israeli military delegation led by Maj. Gen. Aharon Yariv met Monday for the third time with Egyptian officers at the cease-fire line on the west bank of the canal, and an Israeli spokesman said they discussed the prisoner situation. More such meetings were expected, the Israeli command said.

Many Israelis criticized their government for permitting relief supplies to reach the encircled Egyptian troops along the southeast side of the Suez Canal.

Some said the plight of the stranded troops should have been used as a bargaining point to get the POW exchange arranged.

U.N. drivers Monday took 100 truckloads of food, water and medicine through Israeli lines six miles north of Suez on the west bank of the canal, and Egyptian amphibious vehicles began taking the supplies across the waterway.

A U.N. officer said the total shipment will last the estimated 20,000 Egyptian troops about a week, but there was no word of moves toward arranging another supply operation.

The Jerusalem Post said all 120 persons who responded to its opinion sampling believed that the prisoner lists should have come before the supplies were let through.

Maj. Gen. Avraham Adan,

the commander of Israel's armored corps, watched the supplies being ferried across the canal and commented: "They are our enemy. They started the war. I never heard of giving food to the enemy — and they haven't even shown the elementary humanity of giving us the names of our prisoners of war."

Some Israeli soldiers made their criticism directly to Mrs. Meir when she visited the army on both banks of the canal Monday.

A spokesman said she told one soldier: "Nobody ever doubted you could lick old 3rd Army, but there are political considerations." She added that the United States had told her it and the Soviet Union would press the Arabs for a POW exchange.

Maj. Gen. Haim Herzog, the Israeli state radio's authoritative commentator, reported: "There was American pressure on Israel to give a concession to the Egyptians for to prove to the Egyptians that they — the Americans — can deliver the goods, which the Russians can't do."

Egypt's official Middle East News Agency, in its first reference to the 3rd Army since Israel announced last week that it was encircled, said Monday that the force was "valiantly standing firm" and that its supply bridges across the canal were intact.

Scali Sees Truce Threatened

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ambassador John Scali said today "prospects for a settlement are brighter than they ever have been" in the Middle East but said the issue of Arab-Israeli prisoner exchanges could derail peace efforts.

Scali, U.S. envoy to the United Nations, made the comments as Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger explored further how to get actual peace talks going between the combatants. Kissinger arranged more conferences with Egypt's Ismail Fahmi, the personal envoy of Premier Anwar Sadat following a 90-minute meeting Monday.

Fahmi said after the first meeting Monday night with Kissinger that he was "pleased" that he was able to see me right away and both expressed satisfaction with the opening talks. Scali said a subject likely to come up today was the emotional issue of prisoners. It was also learned that Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir and President Nixon will meet at the White House Thursday as part of the diplomatic efforts to reach a Middle East settlement. It was announced today.

The meeting with Mrs. Meir was "arranged by mutual agreement." No specific time was given for her arrival.

Warren said Mrs. Meir also would meet with Kissinger, probably before the session with Nixon which is tentatively scheduled for noon Thursday.

In an interview on the NBC TV Today Show, Scali said Israel was adamant on getting from Egypt a list of Israeli prisoners, and he indicated Kissinger probably would seek to impress on Fahmi the strong Israeli feeling on the POW exchanges.

"The reason is that the Israelis are not going to let the Egyptians out of that pocket until they get that list."

He referred to the beleaguered Egyptian 3rd Army, isolated on the east bank of the Suez.

Scali warned the Egyptians against using Israeli prisoners as any "bargaining lever." Apparently referring to North Vietnam's long refusal to turn over names of American POWs, Scali said this was a potentially "highly inflammable" issue, and one that could "upset the delicate state of peace efforts."

"The issue of prisoners is now becoming an emotional one that could derail the whole process."

Nonetheless, Scali said, "Prospects for a settlement are brighter than they ever have been." The United States and the Soviet Union are strongly committed to lend their good offices to get both sides to sit down and talk about a permanent peace. A respite between another war is just not good enough.

Scali said "this is a unique opportunity" for Washington and Moscow to move in concert to get a permanent peace.

Dean Attempted to Limit Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional report concludes that former White House counsel John W. Dean III put "tremendous pressure" on the FBI as well as the CIA to limit the first Watergate investigation.

The House intelligence subcommittee report, released today, said Dean urged then-acting FBI director L. Patrick Gray with some 25 calls in two weeks to hold off investigating evidence that campaign contributions for President Nixon were involved in the break-in at Democratic National Committee headquarters.

The report quoted Gray as saying Dean's final calls in the effort shortly after the June 17, 1972, break-in were, in the report's words, "made in such a way as to constitute harassment."

It quoted deputy CIA Director

Vernon A. Walters as saying Dean told him "the problem was how to stop the FBI investigation beyond the five suspects" caught red-handed in the break-in.

The subcommittee's report on its four-month, closed-door probe of CIA involvement in the Watergate scandal also said:

—When Dean and former top White House aides H. R. Halde and John D. Ehrlichman urged that the FBI not investigate the so-called Mexican connection involving Nixon campaign contributions because of possible exposure of secret CIA activities, they were "invoking nonexistent" conflicts with CIA operations.

—The CIA and its top officials were nothing more than "unwitting dupes" in supplying disguises used in the Watergate break-in, the burglary of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office and other domestic activities.

Related stories and photo on page 12.

Although the subcommittee said there was no evidence the CIA knew what the disguises were being used for, it obviously should have pressed convicted Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt harder to find out before supplying the disguises.

—Testimony of Gray and Ehrlichman conflict with President Nixon's May 2 statement on how Gray's famous warning to the President that aides were "trying to mortally wound you" came about.

Gray testified that Nixon called back 30 minutes after the acting FBI director gave that warning to a Nixon aide and Gray repeated it to the President, the report said. It quoted Nixon's May 2 statement in which he said he had called Gray on another matter when Gray brought up his concern that, as the President put it, the Watergate investigation would go higher.

Gray told the Senate Watergate Committee the FBI already had learned by then that $89,000 in campaign contributions had gone through a Miami bank account of Bernard L. Barker, one of the five men caught in the Watergate break-in.

Meanwhile, the Senate Watergate committee met in closed session today to prepare for its first public hearings since the collapse of a "compromise" giving it summaries of presidential tape recordings.

There has been speculation the committee will take testimony from Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo, a Florida banker and personal friend of President Nixon.

In his news conference Friday night, Nixon defended Rebozo's acceptance of $100,000 from representatives of billionaire Howard Hughes.

Floating at the Fish Market

Pedestrians at the Fulton Street Fish Market in New York look as if they are in need of a bridge, maybe not as big as the Brooklyn Bridge in the background, but something to get across flooded streets. Record rainfall whipped by gusty winds hit the metropolitan area Monday causing flooding and traffic snarls. Locally 1.20 inches of rain fell in Kingston, the first measurable amount since Oct. 18. Elsewhere in Ulster County up to two inches of rain soaked parched woodlands and near-dry streams. No flooding was reported in this area. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Woman Charged With Murder in Rensselaer

Man Found Shot to Death in Greene County

CATSKILL Police in Greene County continued to search for clues today after the body of a man was found shot to death in gangland style Monday morning.

Meanwhile, authorities in Rensselaer arrested a 22-year-old Albany woman on a murder charge in connection with the shooting death of Robert Cirilli, 26, of 22 Lakeview Avenue, Rensselaer, whose body was found near his home Monday morning.

In Greene County, a Central Hudson Gas and Electric Company employee came across the bullet-riddled body of an as yet unidentified male in a grassy area about 20 feet from Route 23A in the Town of Catskill at 9:20 a.m.

Police said the white male, whose age was estimated at about 40, had been shot in the back of the head and in the chest. He had been dead about 24 hours before his body was found, Leeds State Police Senior BCI Investigator Joseph Valicenti said today.

In Rensselaer, police arrested Joyce Ann Shufelt of 48 West Street, Albany, today after Cirilli's body was found in a vacant lot Monday. He had been shot in the back of the head, the neck and the back, according to authorities.

No connection between the two killings has been reported. State police have asked for aid from the public in their attempts to identify the body found near Catskill.

Police described the man as about five feet eight inches tall and weighing 160 pounds, with hazel eyes and dark brown curly hair. They said the man was wearing a maroon shirt and pants at the time of his death.

Police said it appears the murder was not committed at the scene where the body was found, about three-quarters of a mile from the Thruway.

Valicenti said the body could have been thrown or rolled to the spot where it was found from Route 23A.

The investigation is being headed by Maj. Raymond Kisor, Troop F commander, and Greene County District Attorney James Steenbergh.

Rensselaer authorities said the death of Cirilli apparently occurred where the body was found.

Fatal Accident in Catskill

CATSKILL Thruway State Police said Monday afternoon after the vehicle in which he was riding became involved in a head-on collision with a tractor-trailer on the Thruway south of the Catskill interchange.

Suspension in Attempts to Liberalize Soviet Trade Relations

WASHINGTON (AP) — With an eye on big power politics in the Middle East, the Nixon administration has asked Congress to suspend efforts to liberalize trade with the Soviet Union or tie commercial transactions to Russian emigration policies.

Peter Flanigan, Nixon's chief advisor on foreign economic policy, told a Senate banking subcommittee hearing Monday the position would be changed if a satisfactory Mideast peace settlement is achieved.

"We think it is inappropriate at this time to deal with these issues," Flanigan testified. "It is clear that a settlement in the Middle East depends on cooperation with Russia."

The House Ways and Means

Committee has approved an administration-backed foreign trade bill that would grant most-favored-nation status to the Soviets, thereby placing Russian goods under the lowest import duty that is available to United States trading partners.

The House committee, however, added an amendment by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., that would condition the trade liberalization on the Soviet Union's adoption of a free emigration policy for Jews and others wishing to leave.

Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., told Flanigan an effort might be made to attach the Jackson amendment to legislation increasing the lending authority of the Export-Import Bank.

Flanigan said his request for a temporary halt applied to both the trade and bank bills.

In Los Angeles, Occidental Petroleum Corp., a prime mover in expanding commerce with the Soviet Union, said a delay in the trade bill would have no effect on its multi-billion dollar deal involving chemical fertilizer and development of a world trade center in Moscow.

"Neither of these require most-favored-nation sanctions," Occidental board chairman Arnold Kammer said. He added that he thought "President Nixon clearly had no choice but to withdraw the trade bill at this time."

Meanwhile, the Agriculture Department's Foreign Agricultural Service reported Monday that the 1973 Russian wheat crop was rebounding from last year's near-disastrous harvest and would reach a record 100 million tons.

If the projection holds up, the department said, the Russians could have some surplus wheat to sell on the world market in competition with U.S. growers, who last year sold one-fourth of their wheat production to the Soviet Union.

'Keep Controls On,' Suggests Grayson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wage-price controls should not be dropped until the economy slows down a little and food prices stabilize, says the former head of the defunct Price Commission.

C. Jackson Grayson Jr., who headed the commission during its 14-month existence until it was disbanded in January, said now is not the time for the Nixon administration to junk controls.

"They can't afford to take them off right now," Grayson said in a telephone interview. "There would be such an explosion in prices that there would be a great demand for more stringent controls."

He said the public resistance would be so great that Congress might even legislate a price freeze, a policy tool he opposes to deal with the present price surge.

A slower economy usually means there is less pressure for price increases.

Grayson, who has returned to his economics post at Southern Methodist University, said he favored allowing the legal authority for wage-price controls to expire next April 30 because retaining it creates a temptation for continuing controls after their usefulness has expired.

That legal authority is contained in the Economic Stabilization Act, which expires next April 30. Unless Congress extends the power, wage-price controls will automatically end on that date.

Grayson said, however, there may be a tradeoff with Congress in which wage-price controls are formally abandoned, but standby authority for them is retained.

President Nixon has not announced whether he will seek an extension of the law, but his economic aides want to scrap wage-price controls as soon as inflation shows positive signs of cooling.

Police Protection IN SAUGERTIES

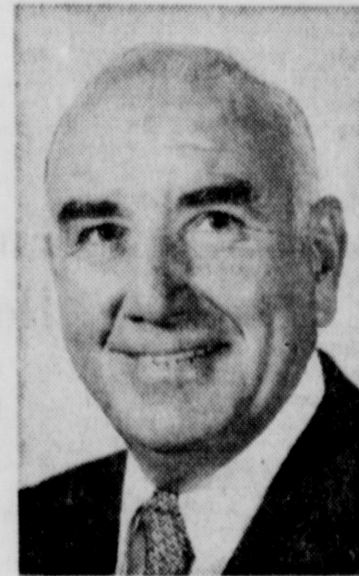

Frank Hallion

As Police Commissioner and Councilman for the last four years, Frank Hallion has seen to it that Saugerties has a 24 hour police force. Besides this police work, he has worked hard for Barclay sewers.

RE-ELECT HALLION
"He Works for You"

Elect — Gardner — Councilman
Elect — Goertz — Supervisor

Paid for by Saugerties Republican Committee

One in a series of discussions about you and your money.

A relaxed way to get rich.

Saving money sounds dull.

We agree.

We agree that it sounds dull.

But we know better.

It's not dull, it's just relaxed.

And everyone who's been saving regularly for any length of time in a New York State Savings Bank will agree with that.

Because they know that if you give saving a chance, if you are a little relaxed about it and give it time, the things it will do for you are incredible.

For example: say you put $100 a month in a Savings Bank every month for 20 years. At the end of that time the $24,000 you've deposited (at 5 1/4% compounded) will have earned you more than $18,800 in interest, before taxes. That modest $100 you began with is now a whopping $42,800.

Incredible? Only if you don't realize that this is the sort of thing that's supposed to happen when you put money in a Savings Bank.

But how about this? You can draw as much as $2,290 in interest each year from that $42,800 for the rest of your life (no matter how long you live) and the $42,800 remains intact—to be given to your children or assigned in any other way you wish.

Now that's a savings idea with a payout that can be called spectacular.

And what about this? Money on deposit in a New York State Savings Bank today (again at 5 1/4% compounded) will double in just about 13 years.

Sure there are quicker and more exciting routes to riches. But those routes usually involve risk—and sometimes ruin.

Which is another reason why some people insist that a Savings Bank account sounds dull. Because it's safe.

Yet there are a great many thousands of other people who are—in a most relaxed manner—quietly getting rich because they believe that a Savings Bank is the best place for their money.

A most lucrative place, too.

How true. Nowhere is there a better environment for saving than a Savings Bank. In fact, the record shows that people who save in Savings Banks actually save more.

Why?

Well, one reason may be that, while savings is only a partial function of most banks, it's a major function of Savings Banks.

Another reason may be that at a Savings Bank there are savings accounts designed to fit a wide variety of uses—plus many kinds of payout plans.

Still another reason may be that Savings Banks are uniquely geared to work with you and your money to help provide you—in savings and other financial matters—with your basic human needs.

People who have invested with them regularly over the years know this to be true: Savings Banks have a long continuous tradition of serving people. Specializing in the human side of banking, they have a genuine concern for you and your money that goes far beyond the business of banking itself. It involves your home: buying it and improving it. Education for your children. Low-cost life insurance.

All this, of course, in addition to the service they are named for—savings.

The Savings Banks of New York State publish a monthly bulletin entitled "You and Your Money" which contains helpful information on saving, buying, borrowing, budgeting and other aspects of personal finance.

Systems Reported Perfect For Nov. 10 Space Launch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The communications and navigation systems of the Skylab 3 rocket ship checked out perfect Monday in a countdown for the Nov. 10 launch of a rookie crew toward America's orbiting space laboratory.

Space agency officials said technicians today would hook up small explosive charges on the Apollo command module for use in undocking the ship from Skylab in orbit, and also test the ship's electrical system.

Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue, the first all-rookie space crew since the Gemini program, were scheduled for launch at 11:40 a.m. EST Nov. 10 on a space research journey that could last 85 days.

Continuing their training in semi-isolation at the Johnson Space Center in Houston, the crew has been approved for a mission of at least 60 days, one more than the Skylab 2 record. They'll make the 85-day flight if their health is holding up, they have rationed their food properly and they can find enough space research work to keep them busy.

Carr and Pogue are veteran military test pilots, and Gibson is a civilian scientist-astronaut. They are being kept away from everyone except their wives and a few key workers to protect them from common earth infections that could prevent them from making the voyage.

The astronauts have hundreds of hours of study on comet

Kohoutek, the sun, the earth and themselves planned for their mission aboard the 86-ton, three-bedroom space house.

Technicians Monday used the first hours of the launch countdown to check the Apollo's communications and navigation system and tested vital parts of the Saturn rocket.

Officials were headed first for taking the countdown clock to the T-minus-8-second mark, in a drill that will simulate all of the launch vehicle's necessary functions. The clock will then be rolled back to the 42-hour point and started again Nov. 8, with many of the tests to check on the spacecraft's reliability eliminated because they were to be covered in the rehearsal.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices headed lower today and brokers said investors were expressing some uneasiness about the strength of the economy.

The opening Dow Jones Industrial average was down almost a point and declines outnumbered advances by almost 8 to 5 in slow trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said one depressant on the market was the government report that leading economic indicators declined in September for the first time in five months. They said some investors expressed concern that the hoped for economic slowdown could be more severe than earlier expected.

Active issues on the Big Board included Texaco, down 1/4 to 33; Levitz Furniture, down 1/4 to 6; Skyline Corp., up 1/2 to 16 1/2; Merck, up 1/4 to 99 1/2; and Avon Products, off 1/4 to 91 1/2.

Monday, the Dow lost 2.26 points to close at 984.80 and declines held almost a 4 to 3 lead over advances on the NYSE. Some brokers termed the market's behavior a continued consolidation in the wake of its strong advance earlier this fall.

UAW Asked to Approve Pact

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers (UAW) today asked 185,000 rank-and-file members to approve its new three-year contract with Ford Motor Co., details of which have been kept secret since the pact was negotiated Friday.

Specifics of the new agreement were to be made public today.

The 200-member UAW Ford Council, consisting of local officers, was expected to follow the lead of the 26-member International Executive Board, which unanimously recommended approval Monday.

While no timetable was set, it was expected that ratification balloting would begin by the weekend, with the final vote by next week. Then, the UAW leaders will renew their efforts to gain a contract with General Motors, the last of the automotive "big three" without a working agreement.

The UAW was expected to seek from GM the same basic economic package it won from Chrysler during a nine-day same retirement pension protest in September. Ford granted, providing for a $700-a-month package calling for a 3 per cent increase in each of the foundry and forge workers at next two years, and an improvement in the cost-of-living formula after 25 years because of the hazardous nature of their work.

'Lampoon' Recalls Copies Containing False VW Ad

NEW YORK (AP) — National Lampoon has agreed to recall 135,000 unsold copies of a special edition that contained a false Volkswagen advertisement making light of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's 1969 accident on Chappaquiddick.

The recall was part of a settlement Monday with Volkswagen of America, Inc., which agreed to drop a $30 million damage suit. The car company had called the ad "coarse, insensitive and cruel."

A passenger in Kennedy's car, Mary Jo Kopechne, drowned four years ago when a car in which they were riding plunged off a narrow bridge into a creek on Chappaquiddick, near Martha's Vineyard in Massachusetts.

In an intended spoof, the satirical magazine copied a legitimate Volkswagen ad that showed one of its cars afloat in a purported demonstration of its airtight construction. The magazine said in its text of the ad: "Poor Teddy. If he'd been smart enough to buy a Volkswagen he never would have gotten into hot water."

The ad also said Kennedy would be president today if he had been driving a Volkswagen. Nov. 15 was the target date.

Fire Destroys Home in Malden

MALDEN — A two-story, unoccupied dwelling on Main Street in Malden was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin Monday night, despite the efforts of men from five fire departments.

Malden firemen were called to the scene at 8:40 p.m. The structure was largely engulfed in flames on arrival, and the Saxton, Centerville, Cedar Grove and Saugerties Fire Departments were called in to assist at the scene.

The building was unoccupied and the owner's name was not immediately available from firemen.

The Malden Fire Department remained at the scene until about 1:30 a.m. as the building continued to smolder after the other fire departments had left at about 11 p.m.

No injuries were reported.

Attacks 'Watergate Politics'

Nader-Style Group Launches Assault

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — A statutes by the legislature, Ralph Nader-inspired citizens' organization has launched an "all-out assault on Watergate politics in New York State." Steve Atlas, an associate of consumer advocate Nader and a chief organizer of the newly formed New York Citizen Action Group (NYCAG), said Monday that the group's first major goal would be enactment of wide-ranging political reform.

Atlas said at a news conference that the group hoped to recruit 3,000 members by next spring, each paying a $15 membership fee.

He said the NYCAG would also conduct investigations into consumer, environmental and human rights issues.

But the principal immediate objective, he said, would be legislative approval of a package of bills aimed at opening up the political process in the state.

Atlas said the bills would cover seven major areas: open meetings, open records, lobby disclosure, campaign financing, conflict of interest, voter information and a political practices commission.

"A year ago anyone talking about changing the structure of government in New York was either deranged or running for office," Atlas said.

"Today the political climate has changed drastically, and people with little or no activist background are looking for ways to get their two cents in. Those are the people we want to reach," he said.

Atlas said the NYCAG would be a "countervailing force" in a "political arena long dominated by backroom deals, special favors and private interests."

"Staff research and advocacy, backed up by an informed, no-nonsense volunteer lobby, should give us a good deal of leverage," he said. "We don't expect to be taken lightly."

"We see New York as a tremendous opportunity to put proven Nader tactics to work on the state level," Atlas said, adding that the Washington, D.C.-based Nader had discussed the possibility of a state group with him and other NYCAG organizers earlier this year.

Although the NYCAG will not receive any direct financial backing from Nader's organizations, it will probably draw on Nader's staff for assistance, Atlas said.

The young organizer said he was beginning a one-week, seven-city tour of upstate New York to enlist new members.

The NYCAG is headquartered at 29 Eld St. in Albany.

Gilman Hits Campaign

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Improving the postal service is better postal service. Rep. Benjamin A. Gilman (R-26th Dist.) today blasted a proposed $3.8 million post office advertising campaign as "another blatant example of wasteful government spending."

Gilman criticized the U. S. Postal Service for conducting a widespread newspaper advertising campaign designed to clear up "misunderstandings" about the postal service.

In his letter to Rep. Thaddeus Dulski, chairman of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee, Gilman termed the $3.8 million price tag for this fiscal year "exorbitant."

"It would be far better for our postal authorities to invest these millions of dollars in

Attitude Change Demanded

MIDDLETOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Force base being made into a commercial airport by the Rep. Benjamin Gilman, R-N.Y., has called on the Metropolitan Transportation Authority to drop its "public be damned attitude."

Gilman said Monday that public hearings should have been held before the MTA of the airport and a major expansion of its land area contained in a building at Stewart Airport for use by federal immigration and customs officials, fourth major jetport for the New York City area.

County Reapportionment

The reapportionment plan which will be submitted to the electorate on Tuesday's general election is one which should be supported.

The redistricting of the legislature is mandated by the U. S. Supreme Court ruling in favor of the one-man, one-vote concept. Consequently, reapportionment must be undertaken as soon as possible after the last federal census.

The proposed plan, drawn up by Ulster legislators, has merit because of its low deviation rate, setting up representation to the ratio of one legislator for every 4,280 persons. This is a deviation of only 6.18 per cent, whereas 10 per cent is allowable under the high court's ruling.

Further in the proposed plan's favor is the fact that it already has been approved by State Supreme Court Justice Edwin Conway, who ruled that it was acceptable in light of the federal guidelines.

There has been some mild complaints that the plan as drawn shows a favoritism toward the Republicans. This can be dismissed as a bit of impractical thinking. Whichever party is in majority will necessarily devise a plan to favor itself. However, as long as federal standards are met there is really no great fault found.

Defeat of the plan next Tuesday, however, will cause the county an additional expense it can ill afford. If a special referendum has to be held on another reapportionment plan, it would cost the taxpayers of Ulster an unnecessary $70,000.

Progress Comes Slowly

Since air purity standards for American cities were laid down in the Clean Air Act of 1970, we have learned that achieving them within the time envisioned by the Act would turn some of our cities into disaster areas as far as transportation is concerned. A massive shift away from the private automobile toward alternate forms of transit simply cannot be carried out in the space of a few years.

While the Clean Air Act is providing a spur to cities and counties to get down to business in transit development, no law can accelerate the process of planning and construction needed to equip a city with a new transit system. Congress, which does not like to admit it made a mistake, is faced now with relaxing the timetable for demanding compliance with the air standards it had hoped to see enforced by the mid-1970s.

The standards, themselves, however, must remain as a goal which the nation cannot abandon. Congress must continue to keep the pressure on all segments of industry and agencies of local government which are responsible for seeing that the standards eventually are met. The relaxation must be slight.

We can thank the Clean Air Act, for instance, for prodding Detroit into an investment in engine technology which auto manufacturers would have been reluctant otherwise to make. The controversy still surrounding the use of the catalytic muffler as a smog-reduction device does not alter the fact that the auto industry is far closer today to producing a car with clean exhaust than it would have been without government pressure. The Environmental Protection Agency now must make sure it does not mandate the use of the catalytic device nationwide until all the returns are in, settling once and for all whether it is the best answer technology can provide at this time to the exhaust problem.

The worldwide oil shortage promises to have both a plus and a minus effect in easing air pollution. On the other hand, the higher prices in prospect for gasoline promise to do as much as any direct government action to persuade Americans that many trips in their cars are not really necessary. However, the short supply of low-sulfur fuel oil this winter may require a temporary relaxation of bans on the use of fuels that emit more pollutants.

The Clean Air Act was a piece of landmark legislation for the United States of America. It was adopted under the threat of disastrous consequences if air pollution were to continue increasing at the rate it had been increasing in the past. It is disappointing that the standards and goals for cleaning up our air are now faced with reappraisal and revision. This is not the first time, however, that Congress has passed a law hoping to solve a public problem, only to discover that both the problem and the solution are more difficult and complex than the law envisioned.

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The federal government, believe it or not, is America's biggest opium trafficker. The authorities are quietly planning to unload hundreds of tons of the addictive drug from the secret hiding places besides the gold at Fort Knox and elsewhere.

Actually, the government opium peddling is all on the up and up. Besides being the source of the killer drug heroin, opium is also refined into the useful pain-killers morphine and codeine. The United States began building up an opium stockpile after World War II.

At the beginning of this year, there were 634 tons of opium in the stockpile, mostly refined into opium gum, morphine sulphate and codeine. Simultaneously, a bad opium crop in India created a codeine and morphine shortage.

Thus, the United States decided a good deal of the federal opium stash could be sold off for medical purposes and Congress is now considering approval of the sale to private industry.

Meanwhile according to classified information from the Justice Department, the opium is under 24-hour guard at Fort Knox (its derivatives are worth more than gold), at West Point (well away from any curious cadets) and at a naval supply depot in New Jersey, among other sites.

The precautions by the federal government are wise: A huge heroin cache in the custody of the New York police was recently stolen from under their noses by big-league drug traffickers.

HEBE'S BRIDGE: Charles G. (Bebe) Rebozo, President Nixon's best friend, is planning to develop an island near Key Biscayne that has long been a point of controversy.

The teardrop-shaped island, called Fisher's, is located between the southern tip of Miami Beach and Virginia Key, an adjunct to Key Biscayne. For years, Rebozo and other Fisher's Island, Inc., stockholders have sought construction of a causeway to provide access to their property. Each attempt has been blocked by angry citizens.

We have now learned, however, that Rebozo and his fellow investors have commissioned an architectural firm to draw up plans for an urban community on Fisher's.

Under the directions given Simonds and Simonds, Pittsburgh architects who specialize in environmental design, the island will have no circulating vehicles other than buses and golf carts.

John Simonds of the firm admitted to us that, at Rebozo's orders, the planning is well under way and a preliminary rendering will be completed by the end of the year.

The few people who work on the island were surprised when we asked them about development of the sandspit, which is largely covered with pine. Since local authorities have been reluctant to build the causeway to the island, the success of the venture thus may depend on whether the Nixon administration lends the Rebozo group a federal helping hand with the causeway construction.

NIXON BUGGED: President Nixon, the nation's most famous recorder of private conversations, was himself secretly recorded by a California editor two years ago in an embarrassing conversation.

At the time, Interior Secretary Rogers Morton had announced proudly that he personally had decided to ban two new oil rigs from the pollution-plagued Santa Barbara channel. Under federal court decisions, it is the interior secretary, and no one else, who can decide on such bans.

But at a press reception, Santa Barbara News-Press editor Paul Veblen began to question Nixon searchingly about who really ordered the ban on the rig platforms. Nixon, astonishingly, claimed he, not Morton, did it. Unknown to the President, Veblen's pocket tape recorder was producing this verbatim record of Nixon's admission:

"Oh, we had him (Morton) make the announcement. But I made the decision. I made the decision. But he made the announcement. (In a lower voice) You know, really, they take a lot to heart. So I told Morton, I told him, I said, 'Rog, you go out there and make the announcement. But I, of course, made the decision.' (Nixon chuckles). But give him the credit."

Morton got the credit, but now Nixon is getting the headaches. The big oil companies are trying to show the Morton decree was illegal, in part because Nixon, not Morton, really ordered it. And the tape could become a vital part of their arguments.

"Didn't You Used to Be the 97 Pound Weakling?"

By William F. Buckley Jr.
Students of detente will study the events of last week for many years. Herewith a humble contribution.

1. For a while, the Arab military machine was working with great effect. The pressure exerted on Israel by the Syrians at the Golan Heights was very nearly crucial. Clearly the intention was to overwhelm the Heights and march on through to Haifa, cutting Israel in half. When Israel succeeded finally in repelling the Syrians, her attention was drawn to the invasion (if that is the right word for Egyptians swarming into Egyptian territory) in the south. At this point, United States aid was indispensable. Without it, the Israeli military would have no choice than to cloister its savage military machine for the defense of Israel proper. With it, the Israelis could deploy their reserves confident that they would be replaced by a massive United States airlift. The United States came through.

2. The Israelis' counterattack proved brilliantly but not conclusively successful. They succeeded in forcing their way back across the Suez Canal, and they were headed south to cut off communications lines that fed the Egyptian contingent to the east of the Canal when the cease-fire resolution was voted by the UN Security Council. That resolution was welcomed by the Soviet Union and the Arabs for obvious reasons. And the United States wanted it for the reason that it would clearly be the problem of a permanent peace if Israel's successes were inordinate, and because the U.S. support for Israel would already prove damaging in our dealing with the Arab governments, and with western European the Israelis, examining the Arabs' oil diplomacy. Accordingly we put pressure on the Israelis to cease fire.

3. Not enough pressure. Because after a short respite, the Israelis, examining the prospective advantages of marching on and consummating their victory, began to do so. It was at this point that the Russians saw the clear threat to their own interests. They could not tolerate a total Israeli success and all that this would mean in terms of an Arab sense of betrayal in the grander theater of operations, where the principal players are the United States and the Soviet Union. Accordingly, the Soviets wrote brusquely to Henry Kissinger (we have Senator Jackson's word as regards the tone of that communication), and by way of background accompaniment, mobilized a few airborne units, announced that if the United States did not care to join the Soviet Union in a common enforcement of the cease fire, why the Soviet Union would do the job by herself.

This move scared the living bejesus out of the United States, which as we all know ordered a general military alert, and the sum total of these intricately balanced events was (and this is conjecture) to cause the United States to put irresistible pressure on Israel to STOP THIS MINUTE.

4. Certain kinds of pressure Israel does understand, and in a matter of hours, she complied: leaving a Soviet diplomatic corps visibly pleased with the success of its maneuver, and the United States exhausted by the strains of the engagement. The most obvious strain was of course the possibility of a direct military confrontation with the Soviet Union. The strategic strain is to the policy of detente, to which our government clings with near superstitious fidelity. One wishes there were an Archie Cox in the State Department who could do to detente what was done to the Nixon Tape Doctrine. All of which reminds one.

5. That the military strength of the United States, so casual a concern of Congress, was the underpinning of whatever success we had. Reminds one that the relative improvement of the Arab military over the Israeli military in the years since 1967 is at least reflected in the relative strength of the Soviet Union over the United States in the Mediterranean. One hopes that President Nixon, in addressing Congress, will be orderly and direct in describing what he could and couldn't do, because of the impoverishment of our military. That is the unsung scandal of the season.

Washington Calling

Kissinger's Task Grew Harder

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON — As mysterious as the wildest whodunit ever written are the contradictory events of the past week. They have been as baffling in some respects for Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger as for the average citizen sitting on the sidelines and wondering what in thunder is going on.

At his press conference Kissinger did not disclose the reaction he and his associates had in Moscow where they went at the invitation of Party Secretary Leonid Brezhnev. They were impressed by the great value that Brezhnev and the men around him put on detente with the United States. In the six hours of discussion it was the centerpiece of Kremlin decision-making.

In rapid order agreement was reached on a joint U.S.-U.S.S.R. cease fire resolution to be put before the United Nations Security Council. Nothing was said about any Soviet-American force to police the cease-fire. The understanding was that the policing would be done by a U.N. observer force.

This was the word Kissinger took to Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir when he flew from Moscow to Tel Aviv. It was a most-welcome word in light of Israel's heavy casualties and severe losses of planes and armor.

Then without any warning the roof fell in. It was the lot of Kissinger's friend and collaborator, Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin, to bring him a note stating the Kremlin's intention to send in Soviet forces unilaterally even though the United States declined to participate. The Kremlin knew very well Washington would have none of a joint force in the explosive Middle East.

The specter that arose immediately was of a split in the Soviet hierarchy between a Brezhnev-detente faction and the hard-line militarists.

Not even the Kremlinologists who sieze on every straw out of Moscow can say with complete assurance that this is the fact. But even after the capitulation by Jacob Malik in the Security Council the mystery remains.

Whether President Nixon overreacted in calling the 3 a.m. alert is also a mystery. The alert of the Strategic Air Command, the calling up of National Guard units, the clatter of guns and tanks across the world as American units in West Germany were ordered moved to the East German border came as the Nixon credibility gap had become an abyss rivaling the Grand Canyon.

The switch on the White House tapes, the firing of Archibald Cox, the resignation of the top men at Justice — all this had stirred an upsurge of opinion from around the country as had rarely been seen even in the crunch of the Vietnam war and attack on Cambodia.

Was the alert merely a diversionary tactic to draw attention away from the President's domestic trials? This was the abrasive question put to Kissinger at his press conference. He replied in the course of an impressive performance that there must be some degree of trust in the officials who are trying to conduct foreign policy.

In the barrooms of the Old West, legend has it, was a sign that read: "Don't shoot the piano player, he's doing the best he can." That should be transposed and hung up in the Secretary of State's office.

No sooner was the sensational news of the alert spread across the headlines than Sen. Henry M. (Scoop) Jackson came out shooting with both guns. Professing to know exactly what was in the note delivered by Dobrynin, he took aim at Kissinger and if he missed at least he raised the political dust on either side of the beleaguered secretary.

Thomas Gleason, head of the International Maritime Union, said he would order his men to cease loading and unloading shipments to and from the Soviet Union if within a deadline he fixed the flow of war material from the Soviet Union to the Arab combatants did not cease. The House of Representatives put on the shelf a trade bill that was certain to carry an amendment denying tariff concessions and export-import credits to the Soviet Union.

All were busy little helpers making Kissinger's task in seeking to avoid a confrontation with the Soviets even more difficult than it was bound to be in any event.

In an interview he gave to an Italian woman journalist, which he later regretted, Kissinger described himself as riding alone into a Western town to face friend or foe. He is a lonely rider and an intrepid rider.

Coffee Drinkers Relax, Heart Trouble Not Related

CHICAGO (UPI) — Coffee drinkers of the world—relax. The results of a study published Monday in the Journal of the American Medical Association shows no significant relationship between coffee drinking and heart trouble.

"No independent association between coffee drinking and a subsequent first myocardial infarction in 464 patients was found in a study well controlled for cigarette smoking and five other established 'risk factors,'" the report said.

The report was authored by Drs. Arthur L. Klatzky and Gary D. Friedman and Abraham B. Siegelman of the Kaiser-Permanente Medical Center in Oakland, Calif. and based on a Kaiser-Permanente Epidemiologic Study of Myocardial Infarction.

The authors said review of other studies which appeared to show some association between heart diseases and coffee drinking "indicates that discrepancies in findings may be related either to cigarette smoking or to selection of control subjects."

The study referred to coffee drinkers as those who drink six cups of coffee each day.

Curfew Set

A 9 p.m. curfew will be imposed in the Town of Esopus Halloween night (Wednesday) for all persons 18 years of age and under. Persons under 18 outside after 9 p.m. will be charged with a violation of the legal curfew. Youngsters attending the Halloween Party sponsored by the Town of Esopus Businessmen's Association, which ends at 9 p.m., will be given a "reasonable amount of time" to get to their homes.

Meeting Is Planned

RHINEBECK — The area's handicapped with community leaders and members of Rehabilitation Programs Committee members in order to learn how the organization can be of better assistance to handicapped individuals' needs.

Ministers, educators, social workers, nurses, civic and social groups from the Rhinebeck, Red Hook, Tivoli, Rhinecliff and Staatsburg areas have been invited to the meeting, in addition to the parents.

Further information may be obtained from Mrs. L. Alsaker, Rehabilitation Programs, Inc., Poughkeepsie.

Halloween Warning

Police Sgt. Joseph Ferrara Sr. of Esopus, today warned parents regarding trick or treat practices on Halloween, urging them to walk with their children on their rounds and to carry flashlights and give flashlights to all children in dark clothing. He asked that parents examine all candy and fruit before allowing the children to eat it. Police will patrol the town Halloween night, he said.

Burglary in City

Kingston detectives are investigating a burglary overnight at the residence of Arthur Bouchard, 30 Ponckhockie Street. Detectives said some $160 in cash was reported taken after the burglar or burglars gained access through a rear door.

Rosendale Hearing

The zoning board of appeals of the Town of Rosendale will conduct a public hearing 7:30 p.m. today at the town community building, Maple Hill on appeal of David Coopersmith for a special use permit for conversion of two seasonal residences. Buildings are on the Coopersmith property on Long-year Avenue, Tillson.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By JIM GILPATRIC

Election Day is almost here. As in every pre-election period claims and counter-claims have been heard. . . . Half truths and exaggerations. . . . Allegations, accusations and denials. . . . Loud mouths clenched and shaking fists. . . . Innuendoes and insults. . . .

An almost 200-year-old unique document—the Constitution of the United States—permits this. More importantly, it permits all of us to believe or disbelieve what we want. And still more important yet, it permits us the privilege and power to vote as we wish. There is no such thing as a controlled vote in our country. No one, absolutely no one but yourself can control your vote. Controlled votes are NOT permissible or possible.

On Election Day you accept or reject the pleas and pressures. You have a freedom of choice. No one can impair your freedom to vote as you wish. Go to the polls. Vote. No one was ever elected, no issue was ever decided by STAY-AT-HOME PEOPLE!

LEGAL NOTICES

STATE OF NEW YORK

DEPARTMENT OF STATE

Albany, September 28, 1973

Pursuant to the provisions of section

seventy-two of the Election

Law, the following Proposition

Number One and Proposed Amendments to the State Constitution

Numbers One to Ten inclusive will be submitted to the voters of the State for approval or disapproval

at the General Election on November sixth, nineteen hundred seventy-three.

JOHN P. LOMENZO

Secretary of State

Abstract of Proposition

Number One

The purpose and effect of section

one of chapter 1049 of the Laws of 1973, as amended by sections 1 and

2 of chapter 1049 of the Laws of 1972, to be known as the Transportation Capital Facilities Bond Act of 1973, are to facilitate the maintenance of subway, bus and commuter rail fares at present or lower levels, to promote and assure the provision of rapid, efficient, economic and safe transit facilities, and persons and property, and to stimulate development and revitalization of communities throughout the state

by assuring modern transportation systems between and within these communities. The statute authorizes the creation of a state debt in the amount not to exceed in the aggregate three billion five hundred million dollars ($3,500,000,000) to provide monies to be used, in such manner and upon such terms and conditions as the legislature may prescribe, for the acquisition, construction, reconstruction, improvement and for the acquisition of real property and interests in real property required or expected to be required therefor.

Separate allocations of the monies to be received from the sale of bonds, made at present or lower highways, State and Federally aided highways and highway-transportation projects, State parkways, ar-rte highways, bikeways and abandoned railroad transportation property (i) in New York City, two hundred fifty million dollars ($250, 000,000); (ii) in counties within the metropolitan commuter transportation district but outside New York

City (Nassau, Suffolk, Westchester,

Dutchess, Putnam, Rockland and

Orange), four hundred million dollars ($400,000,000); and (iii) in all other counties (i.e., outside the metropolitan commuter transportation district), seven hundred million dollars ($700,000,000); and

(b) rapid transit, railroad, omnibus

and marine transportation capital facilities and equipment (i) in New York City, one billion one hundred million dollars ($1,100,000,000); (ii)

in counties within the metropolitan commuter transportation district but outside New York City (Nassau, Sul-folk, Westchester, Dutchess, Putnam, Rockland and Orange), six hundred million dollars ($600,000,

000); and in all other counties (i.e., outside the metropolitan commuter transportation district), four hundred million dollars ($400,000,000).

The statute provides for the submission to the voters at the 1973

general election of the proposition

whether the provisions of the act

authorizing the creation of a State debt for the above purposes in the amount of three billion five hundred million dollars ($3,500,000,000)

shall be approved.

Form of Submission of

Proposition Number One

Transportation Bond Issue

To facilitate the maintenance of subway, bus and commuter rail fares at present or lower levels, and to provide monies for the acquisition, construction, reconstruction, improvement and rehabilitation of certain public transportation facilities and equipment, shall section one of chapter ten hundred forty-eight of the Laws of 1973, as amended by sections one and two of chapter

ten hundred forty-nine of the Laws of 1972, be known as the transportation capital facilities bond act of 1973, known as the transportation capital facilities bond act of 1973,

authorizing the creation of a State

debt in the amount of three billion five hundred million dollars, be approved?

LEGAL NOTICES

Abstract of Proposed

Amendment Number One

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to permit the exclusion of indebtedness contracted by a county, city, town or village after January 1, 1962 and prior to January 1, 1983 (instead of January 1, 1973) for construction or

reconstruction of sewage facilities

in ascertaining the power of such

county, city, town or village to contract indebtedness within its constitutional debt limit, pursuant to method, terms and conditions prescribed by the Legislature.

Form of Submission of Proposed

Amendment Number One

Exclusion of Indebtedness for

Sewage Facilities From Local

Constitutional Debt Limits

Shall the proposed amendment to paragraph 5 of section five of article eight of the Constitution permitting the exclusion of indebtedness contracted by a county, city, town or village after January 1, 1962 and

prior to January 1, 1983 (instead of January 1, 1973) for construction or

reconstruction of sewage facilities

in ascertaining the power of such

county, city, town or village to contract indebtedness within its constitutional debt limit, be approved?

Abstract of Proposed

Amendment Number Two

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to permit a person charged with a felony, other than one punishable by death or life imprisonment, with the consent of the district attorney, to waive in dictum by a grand jury and consent to be prosecuted on an information filed by the district attorney.

Such waiver shall be evidenced by a written instrument signed by the defendant in open court in the presence of his counsel.

Form of Submission of Proposed

Amendment Number Two

Waiver of Grand Jury Indictments

Shall the proposed amendment to section six of article one of the Constitution providing that a person charged with a felony, other than one punishable by death or life imprisonment, may, with the consent of the district attorney, waive in

dictum by a grand jury and con-

sent to be prosecuted on an information filed by the district attorney,

and provide that such waiver shall be evidenced by a written instrument, signed by the defendant in open court in the presence of his counsel, be approved?

Abstract of Proposed

Amendment Number Three

The purpose and effect of the proposed amendment is to expand the legislature's authorization to loan

the money of the state to public corporation and the use thereof by such corporation for the purpose of making secured loans to non-profit corporations to improve employment opportunities in any area of the state. Presently, such secured loans may be made by a public corporation (i.e., the Job Development Authority) would also be permitted to make secured loans to finance the construction of new buildings to be used for research and development, and for the purchase of machinery and equipment related to such new industrial or manufacturing plants and research and development buildings. The proposed amendment would also increase the percentage that such public corporation may lend to non-profit corporations for all such purposes from thirty per cent to forty per cent of project cost.

Form of Submission of Proposed

Amendment Number Three

Improvement of Employment

Opportunities

Shall the proposed amendment to subdivision three of section eight of article seven of the Constitution (1) expanding the legislature's power to authorize the loan of the money of the state to a public corporation for the purpose of making secured loans to non-profit corporations to improve employment opportunities in any area of the state to include the authorization of the loan of the money of the state to such a public corporation, be approved?

LEGAL NOTICE

Abstract of Proposed

Amendment Number Four

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to increase the monetary jurisdiction of the district court from six thousand dollars to ten thousand dollars exclusive of interest and costs and to increase the term of office of judges of the district court from six years to ten years.

Form of Submission of Proposed

Amendment Number Four

Jurisdiction of District Court

and Term of Office of the Judges

Thereof

Shall the proposed amendment to subdivision d and h of section sixteen of article six of the Constitution increasing the monetary jurisdiction of the district court from six thousand dollars to ten thousand dollars exclusive of interest and costs and increasing the term of office of the judges of the district court from six years to ten years,

be approved?

Abstract of Proposed

Amendment Number Five

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to delete from the Constitution the provision designating the head of the department of correction (now the department of correction services) as the chairman of the state commission of correction.

Form of Submission of Proposed

Amendment Number Five

Chairmanship of the State

Commission of Correction

Shall the proposed amendment to section five of article seven of the Constitution, deleting the provision that the head of the department of correction (now the department of correction services) shall be the chairman of the state commission of correction, be approved?

Abstract of Proposed

Amendment Number Six

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to expand the jurisdiction of the family court over the custody of minors in habeas corpus proceedings. This would be accomplished by deleting the restriction upon the jurisdiction of the family court, presently contained in the Constitution, which provides that the court has jurisdiction over actions and proceedings involving the custody of minors except for custody in habeas corpus proceedings.

The proposed amendment would delete the restriction upon the jurisdiction of the family court to determine the custody of minors in habeas corpus proceedings, thus conferring such jurisdiction upon

the family court, be approved?

Form of Submission of Proposed

Amendment Number Six

Family Court: Custody of Minors

Shall the proposed amendment to subdivision b of section thirteen of article six of the Constitution eliminating the restriction upon the jurisdiction of the family court to determine the custody of minors in

habeas corpus proceedings, thus

conferring such jurisdiction upon

the family court, be approved?

Abstract of Proposed

Amendment Number Seven

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment, which deals with forest preserve lands located outside of the Adirondack and Catskill parks, is to increase the size of parcels of land which the Legislature may dedicate for the practice of forest or wildlife conservation or authorize the use thereof for public recreational or other purposes or the sale, exchange or other disposition thereof, from not more than ten contiguous acres entirely separated from any other portion of the forest preserve, to not more than one hundred contiguous acres entirely separated from any other portion of the forest preserve.

Double Ring Wedding

MRS. DANIEL W. O'BRYNE
(Carol Ann Klie)

Faith Assembly of God Church, Poughkeepsie, provided the setting for the October wedding of Carol Ann Klie, daughter of Mrs. Martha Klie, South Mountain Road, Gardiner, and Daniel William O'Byrne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold O'Byrne of RD 2, Box 194, New Paltz.

The Rev. Ralph Midget officiated at the double ring ceremony. Raymond Klie, brother of the bride, sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Dr. Herbert Klie gave his sister in marriage. She wore a white cotton lace gown. A Camelot headpiece held her long veil and she carried a bouquet of red roses and white gardenias.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Anna Robinson, Hurley Avenue, Kingston. Attendants were Mrs. Diane Klie, sister-in-law of the bride, Jersey City, N.J.; and Miss Kimberly Klie, niece of the bride, Ringwood, who served as junior bridesmaid.

Attendants wore cranberry gowns, trimmed with white eye-lit lace. They carried bouquets of daisies, roses, carnations and gardenias. Jenny and Carry Klie, nieces of the bride, served as flower girls in cranberry and white gowns, and eye-lit lace bonnets. They carried baskets of pink carnations.

All gowns were designed by the bride and Mrs. Anna Robinson. They were made by Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. M. Klie and Mrs. Thomas Klie.

James Cornwell of Gardiner served as best man. Harold E. O'Byrne Jr. of RD 2, Box 194, New Paltz was an usher and Martin Scott Klie of Ringwood, N.J. was ringbearer.

A reception was held at the Hedges, Route 9W, West Park.

Mrs. O'Byrne was graduated from Lincoln High School, New Jersey and from Jersey City State College, with a BA in Elementary Education. She is employed as a third grade teacher at Pine Bush School.

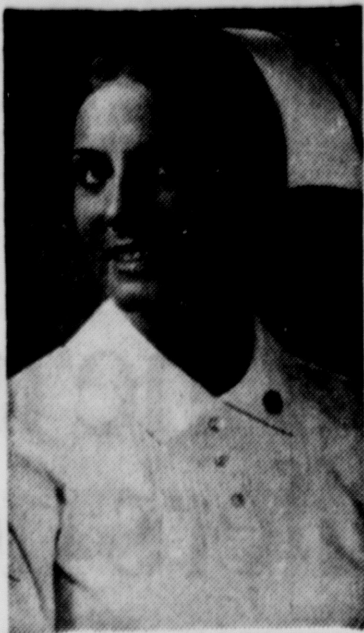

Her husband is an alumnus of New Paltz High School and Ulster County Community College. He is employed as a mental health counselor.

After returning from a wedding trip to Pocono Mountain, Pennsylvania, Mr. and Mrs. O'Byrne will make their home in Gardiner.

MRS. ROBERT F. DARCY
(Candace A. Glanz)

(Lossano Photo Service)

Miss Candace A. Glanz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Glanz of New Paltz, was married Saturday, Oct. 13 to Robert F. Darcy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Darcy Sr. of Beacon. The Rev. Garrett C. Roorda officiated at the ceremony which took place in Dutch Reformed Church of New Paltz.

Mrs. Sandra Vandenberg, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Joan Hayner and Miss Kathleen Donahue.

Best man was S. Lee Cabe. Ushers were the bridegroom's brother, Peter Darcy Jr. and Dean Darcy.

The bride wore a gown of ivory organza, styled with a high neckline, tapered sleeves and fitted bodice, trimmed with pearls and peau d'ange lace. The bell skirt, appliqued with lace motifs, terminated in a chapel train. Her fingertip ivory illusion veil was held by a cap of lace and pearls.

The bride's attendants wore catfans or royal purple jersey, trimmed with Venice lace.

A reception was given at Capri 400, Port Ewen.

The couple will reside in Syracuse.

Convention Speaker
Named by Teachers

Ezella Marable, president of the Ulster County Chapter of the New York State Teachers of Mentally Handicapped, Inc. has announced that Dr. Lillian Ruderman, Professor in the Department of Special Education at the Herbert H. Lehman College, City University of New York, will be dinner speaker at the General Assembly for the New York State Teachers of Mentally Handicapped on the occasion of their seventh Annual Convention at the Granite in Kerhonkson, November 1-4. Dr. Ruderman, a specialist in the field of Mental Retardation will keynote address at the Thursday night dinner.

The theme of this year's convention is Living Unlimited which emphasizes the need to continue the progress made over the past 10 years in giving mentally retarded people the rights given other citizens. There will be two mini-institutes held on Friday, Nov. 2 to discuss this problem. One centers on Human Rights and will deal with the educational and legal rights of the mentally retarded as well as the alternatives to institutionalization. The second Institute will take up the question of career education and whether special education needs to change its programs retarded student better preparation for employment after he leaves school.

In order to give the mentally retarded more exposure to the world of work, presentations will be made on Friday, Nov. 2, and Saturday, Nov. 3 are genetic and environmental factors in retardation, progress being made in State schools for the mentally retarded, integration of the retarded student into regular classrooms, teaching methods of teachers in Inner-City schools; open classrooms for special pupils; and the validity of present diagnostic testing in and out of the schools.

Teachers from Ulster County taking part in the convention are Mrs. Mary Kent, on the staff at Emma Wygant School, chairman of public relations for the State Association and demonstration leader on teaching to the Trainables and young educables; Mrs. Laura Chasin, who teaches High school educables in the Rondout Valley Central Schools, is first-vice president of the State Association and is serving as program chairman for the convention; Mrs. Ezella M. Marable who teaches intermediate educables at the George Washington School in Kingston, is chairman of arrangements for the conventions; Miss Nora McCarty and Miss Eileen Piserek of the Kingston School System who are co-chairman of hospitality. There will be several other teachers from the county attending the convention.

Master of Ceremonies for the banquet on Saturday, Nov. 3, will be Ward Todd of WKNY and a member of the Kingston schools Consolidated Board of Education.

The Troop 15 Boy Scouts of the Emma Wygant School will lead the Flag Salute for the opening ceremonies of the convention.

Detailed information about the convention of New York State Teachers of Mentally Handicapped may be obtained from Mrs. Laura Chasin or Mrs. Ezella M. Marable in Kingston, Mrs. Mary Kent in New Paltz or Mrs. Alice Baker, Wappingers Falls, State President.

HINTS FROM

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

The best thing I've found to unmat and clean the shag material found everywhere in our home (on chairs, coats, throw pillows, etc.), is a dog brush called a "stripper." It is similar to a wool corder.

Between the "stripper brush" and the sweeper nozzle, I can bring any shag material back to a near new state.

Mrs. J. S.

Dear Heloise:

I do a lot of crewel embroidery, and since my eyes are 74 years old, my vision is not too sharp, and I find the yarn difficult to get into the eye of even a large crewel needle.

I have invested in several needle threaders, but they break so easily.

So the other night I took a short piece of folded white thread, put the loop end through the needle eye, put the yarn thru the loop, pulled the white thread, back out and the yarn came thru like a charm.

I don't buy any more fragile needle threaders.

Mrs. Frank Argast

Dear Heloise:

I want to tell you about a new use I made of a swivel chair.

I had a hank of yarn that I wanted to wind into a ball, but there was no one around to hold the hank. So I put the chair in the middle of the floor, and my hank of yarn around the back of the chair.

As I rolled my yarn, I turned the chair with my foot. I was sitting down, of course, and it worked like magic.

Grandma

Dear Heloise:

It's football and soccer time again and that means wet and damp stadium seats.

A sure cure for damp and wet clothing is a disposable plastic diaper. Put the plastic side down first.

You'll have a dry seat plus a cushion.

W.R.

Dear Heloise:

To make a wooden ladder safer for working on poles or tall trees, remove the top rung and insert a length of strong chain in its place.

The chain fits firmly against the tree and keeps the ladder from shifting. This is the way my father did it.

Sylvia S.S.

Dear Heloise:

I have found a terrific way to keep our cat from getting on the new chairs.

I just got an old chair and stuck it in the living room. I put a stuffed mouse with catnip on it on the chair.

Now she just plays with the mouse and keeps off the new chairs!

His Music Career Turns Her Into a Beast

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My fiancé, a talented young man, plays the guitar in a small group, which up until now has played only for their own enjoyment. I have told him repeatedly that I didn't want him to play for the public, whether it be a concert, reception or dance. He always assured me he wouldn't. Now the group is getting offers, and he wants to play professionally.

Maybe I sound selfish, but I want my husband home nights, so our children will know their father. Most musicians are gone nights and weekends, and have to play in Lord knows what kind of places.

I don't want to force him to make a choice between me or his music because I know how much he loves his music. Yet, I could never be happy as a musician's wife, no matter how successful he became.

I know many girls would be thrilled to have their husbands up on a stage, but I'm different.

STAGE FRIGHT IN WACO
DEAR STAGE FRIGHT: There can be no compromise here. If your fiancé loves

Dear Abby

music, and wants to make it his career, you are forcing him to make a choice.

No man is as miserable as he who sacrifices doing what he wants most to do in order to please his wife. Unless he's the man who does what he wants to do, and has a nagging wife at his elbow reminding him of how miserable SHE is.

DEAR ABBY: You mentioned that occasionally couples want to be married by a clergyman, but can't find one to marry them because it's a "mixed" marriage.

May I suggest that you refer them to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormon).

The LDS marriage ceremony is simple, but impressive, and would be performed by an ordained minister recognized by city and state authority. As you know, we have no paid clergy. Our church is run by volunteers.

Since I became a bishop (this last year), I have performed two marriage ceremonies for nonmembers. The first was between a Catholic and a Lutheran, and the second between a Catholic and a Baptist. The church organist played the music and the room where it was held was appropriately decorated. The young couple seemed to like it very much, and you couldn't beat the price. There was no charge.

Hadassah Paid-Up Membership Group Slated for Nov. 5

Kingston Chapter of Hadassah will hold its Paid-Up Membership meeting on Monday, 8 p.m. November 5 at Congregation Agudas Achim, 254 Lucas Avenue. The evening's program will feature the Kingston Hadassah version of the TV game show "Let's Make a Deal" created by Mrs. Iris Oseas, program vice president with Mrs. Leona Markoe as MC.

President Johanna Lurie announces the SOS Hadassah Hospital Emergency Fund Drive held on October 17th was an outstanding success due to the generous cooperation of the Kingston community. Funds are already on their way to the Hadassah hospitals in Israel.

The Hadassah Medical Center is considered by the international medical community as one of the most progressive, best equipped and staffed centers of its kind in the world. It is a byword in Israel and environs among Jews and Arabs alike for the best in medical care. The Hadassah Medical Organization dedicates itself to all facets of medicine. Its program is based upon a tripod of healing, teaching, and research, and since its inception, has made great strides and progress in each of these directions.

SEN. HOWARD BAKER (UPI TELEPHOTO)

'Not Thinking of '76 . . . Sen. Baker

TROY, N.Y. (UPI) — As he listened to the question, Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. flashed the grin made famous by the televised Senate Watergate hearings.

"I'll repeat the question for the audience because I like to hear it," Baker smilingly told the gathering at the Hudson Valley Community College Monday.

"Would I consider running for president in 1976?"

Turning serious, the Tennessee Republican replied that "until Watergate is behind us, I will not give it a thought. When it's over, if there is still some sentiment in that direction, then I'll retire to my private place and think about it."

Baker told the mostly student audience there were possible constitutional problems if anyone other than the President appointed a special Watergate prosecutor to replace Archibald Cox, whom the President fired last week.

If, for example, he said, federal judge John Sirica were to appoint a prober, subsequent legal actions against those involved in the Watergate situation might later be declared unconstitutional.

Baker said perhaps Congress could have some control over the removal of a special prosecutor or perhaps two special prosecutors could be named "to work in tandem."

Baker termed the firing of Cox "bad political judgement" on the part of the President. He said, however, that the Republican party was "not seriously wounded" by the alleged scandals because "people are drawing a very sharp distinction between the Republican party and those involved in Watergate."

Questioned about the President's attack Friday on the news media, especially television, Baker said he did not agree with the sharp criticism but added that the media also has a responsibility.

Along that line, he said, he was "not sure" that newsmen acted responsibly in questioning Secretary of State Henry Kissinger last week about the validity of the Middle East Crisis.

"I'm not at all sure that served the best interests of the United States," Baker said.

He said he personally was sure there had been a "very dangerous" situation between the United States and Russia regarding the Arab - Israeli conflict. He would not elaborate but said he hoped the details could be made public in the not-too-distant future.

Baker's talk at the 6,400-student, two-year school near Albany was arranged by the student senate last spring before Baker gained prominence through the televised Watergate hearings.

Cox Testifies About Firing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Archibald Cox says he has no evidence he was fired as Watergate special prosecutor because the administration feared his investigation was getting too close to the White House.

But he said White House staff members complained several times about the course of the investigation, and the complaints were relayed to him by then-Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson.

Senate Committee Agrees To Justice Dept. Request on Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rules Committee has agreed to a Justice Department request that it strictly limit access to 1,400 pages of "raw" FBI investigative reports on the fitness of House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford to be vice president.

Declaring they have no intention of stalling or delaying consideration of the nomination, committee members voted unanimously Monday to call Ford as the first witness at confirmation hearings beginning Thursday morning.

The Senate Democratic leadership, meanwhile, advocated "all due deliberateness" on the nomination.

Rules Committee Chairman Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., said that Acting Atty. Gen. Robert H. Bork last Wednesday withdrew by letter a previous Justice Department promise to provide nine committee members with summaries of the FBI's investigation into Ford's background.

With Cannon abstaining, the committee voted unanimously Monday to accept Bork's new offer to provide only the "raw," meaning unevaluated, investigative file.

Access to that file is limited to Cannon and to the committee's ranking Republican, Sen. Marlow W. Cook, R-Ky. They have been examining the file since Wednesday and are to prepare their own summary for committee members.

Cannon said an FBI man is in the room with him at all times when he is inspecting the reports. He said the agent is thoroughly familiar with the raw data and can answer questions on it.

All of the material is returned to the Justice Department each day when he and Cook have completed their examination of it, Cannon said.

The 90-day dollar-fattening diet

If you have $1,000 or more that you're not going to be using in the next 90 days — we can fatten it up for you at 5-3/4% guaranteed annual interest.

That's more than it's earning now if you have it in a regular savings account or a checking account. So if you can spare it for just that short time, why not take advantage of this higher yield?

You have the option to renew — or transfer to a different term plan — when your account matures.

This way, you don't have to worry about tying up your funds for a long period of time.

But if you know right now that you won't need at least $1,000 of your savings for an even longer time, consider the variety of high-yielding Heritage term accounts available to you:

TERM	EFFECTIVE ANNUAL YIELD	GUARANTEED ANNUAL INTEREST
90 days — 1 year	6%	5-3/4%
1 — 2-1/2 years	6.81%	6-1/2%
2-1/2 — 4 years	7.08%	6-3/4%

Federal law permits premature withdrawals on term accounts provided rate of interest on amount withdrawn is reduced to the passbook rate (5-1/4%) and 90 days' interest is forfeited.

Traffic Light Demanded By Hurley Town Residents

By CARL GRAHAM

HURLEY
The Hurley Town Board will forward to the Department of Transportation a petition asking for a traffic light at the intersection of Route 28 and Zena Road.

The petition, signed by 286 residents of the area, said that increasing traffic loads had made the intersection dangerous and in need of a traffic light. Supervisor George Schroeder said that he already had asked DOT officials for a light at the intersection, but would forward the petition as additional evidence of the need for action.

Also forwarded to DOT was a petition from the Ulster Cycling Club asking that the state add a cycling path alongside Route 28 when it is reconstructed between Route 209 and Route 375 in West Hurley.

Schroeder revealed that a letter from DOT regional headquarters in Poughkeepsie said that the state would make improvements for about 4,000 feet along Route 28 west of Route 209 and another 500 feet west of Route 375. The state will do resurfacing, installation of guard rails and other improvements, but will not do any realignment or repositioning of the road, officials said.

DOT also notified the town that it had approved a speed limit of 45 miles an hour along Lucas Avenue Extension between the Ulster-Hurley town line and the DeWitt Mills Road. The town was directed to notify DOT when speed limit signs would be installed.

The board voted to discuss in executive session plans for fencing the Old Hurley Cemetery. Town Justice C. H. DuMond said that if the fence is going to do any good it must be capable of keeping motorbike riders from using the cemetery. The board has appropriated the equipment outright for $574. The board voted to continue to finance a fence for the renting until the end of the year and will investigate the possible options for action before then.

In other action, the board: — Called attention to a 9 p.m. curfew for all persons 16 or under on Halloween night. Copies of the curfew law have been sent to all schools in the town.

— Reminded town residents of a town ordinance that bans parking on town highways from midnight to 6 a.m. between Nov. 15 to April 15, to enable highway crews to remove snow

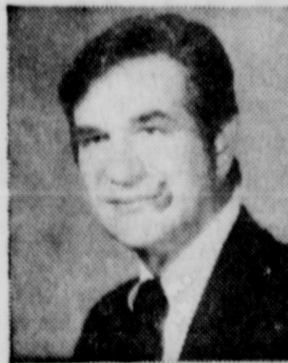

until December 31 a leasing without interference. — Set a public hearing on the 1974 town budget for present contract with RCA Thursday, Nov. 1, at 7 p.m. in the Cafeteria of Hurley Elementary School.

SENIOR CITIZENS AT ONTEORA — Dr. Frank Marlow, superintendent of schools for the Ontario School District, greets a group of more than 200 senior citizens who were guests of the school system in observance of American Education Week. The district provided bus transportation. On the right is Louis Kropatkin, joined by Helen Kispert, Renate Goldfuss and Patty Jacobson. The Ontario marching band performed for the senior citizens along with the school choir at the Central School in Boiceville. After that the Ontario Booster Club sponsored a luncheon followed by a tour of the school. Senior citizen cards were also distributed which entitled those persons to free admission to any school district event, such as football games. This is the second annual senior citizen day at Ontario and Dr. Marlow said the district intends to make it a tradition. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Slight Tax Increase Looms

Rhinebeck Board to Pass Budget

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK
A proposed 1974 town budget that would see a slight local tax increase will, with some slight modifications, be passed by the Rhinebeck Town Board at its regular Nov. 14 meeting.

The proposal was heard by some 20 residents at a Monday night public hearing, with no major objections raised to appropriations that include substantial pay raises to elected officials.

Supervisor William Allen said that the raises would bring Rhinebeck "in line with other towns of our size," and cited figures supporting his statement.

The administration's approach to dealing with revenue sharing funds was summed up by Justice Herman Tietjen, who said, "we see other towns showing tax decreases. They are putting revenue sharing into current expenses . . . we don't want any false sense of security."

Allen explained that the federal appropriations are being generally allocated to "one shot deals," such as equipment purchase, so that if and when the expected five-year program is terminated the entire burden won't be felt in a tax increase.

A short hearing on the town's first three-year fire district contracts prior to the budget hearing produced one comment from the public, "It's pretty cheap for what you get."

The contracts, expected to be ratified Nov. 14, call for three-year increases totalling $1,050 for both Rhinebeck and Hillside Fire Departments. Rhinebeck is in the second year of a two-year contract.

Allen, in commenting on an appropriation to hire a part-time aide for the assessors to help conform with a new county tax mapping and reappraisal, said that the board was "in agreement with the method and concept of reappraisal," although some particular reappraisals were being questioned by assessors.

A substantial increase (from $2,000 to $3,000) to retain the town attorney was justified by Allen because "we feel the town attorney is going to become more active with zoning, and we must get the first call on his services." He added that he foresaw three pieces of litigation involving the town coming up next year.

And, regarding the road program, Allen said it was sometimes difficult to ascertain exactly what residents want for their roads, as some do not want them widened and straightened, but prefer a narrow, but level, road.

The town plan calls for repairs and re-topping 14 miles of town road next year, out of a town total of some 48 miles.

The tax rate is expected to climb about nine cents per thousand for village residents

Earl Weaver Named AL's Top Manager

NEW YORK (AP) — Patient Earl Weaver, who remodeled the Baltimore Orioles from a slow, slugging team into a fast, opportunistic club that recaptured the 1973 American League East Division pennant, was chosen today as AL Manager of the Year.

The stocky Weaver was a landslide winner in balloting conducted by The Associated Press before the playoffs and World Series. He earned 170 votes from sports writers and broadcasters in outpolling Jack McKeon of the Kansas City Royals, runnerup with 91 nominations.

Dick Williams, who left Oakland after directing the A's to the American League and World Series championships, finished third with 41 votes. Del Crandall of the Milwaukee Brewers was fourth with 12 votes.

Then came Frank Quilici of the Minnesota Twins, Ralph Houk of the Yankees, Bobby Winkles of the California Angels, Chuck Tanner of the Chicago White Sox, and Billy Martin, who piloted both Detroit and Texas, with one vote each. Tanner was last year's winner.

This is the first Manager of the Year honor for Weaver, although he directed the Orioles to three straight pennants and over 100 victories each year beginning in 1969.

After that string, Baltimore slipped to third in the AL East in 1972, but bounced back for its fourth East title in five years this season.

The Orioles, after a slow start, didn't pull away from the field until putting together a 14-game winning streak in late August.

Their 97-65 record gave Weaver a remarkable 543-337 mark for a .617 percentage since he replaced Hank Bauer as manager July 11, 1968.

The 43-year-old Weaver is convinced the future might be just as good. "I said earlier this year that our farm system has produced enough outstanding players for this team to win six division championships in the next 10 years," he said. "I see no reason to change my mind now."

The Orioles' resurgence this year was led by rookie speedsters Al Bumbry and Rich Coggins, both of whom hit over .300 and paced the club in stolen bases. Over-all, the team had a record eight players who stole 10 or more bases.

"Earl did an outstanding job this year after a somewhat disappointing start," said General Manager Frank Cashen after recently rehiring Weaver for the 1974 season at an estimated salary of $70,000.

"He put together a whole new blend of players and reshaped the club to fit the new talent so quickly," added Cashen. "Half of the players from our championship team of two years ago were gone and we didn't have the power we once did. We out-hit every other Orioles' team that played here since 1954 and outran them, too."

Will Finley Appeal?

CHICAGO (UPI) — Baseball magnate Charles O. Finley today was pondering an appeal of Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's latest and most stinging reprimand—a $7,000 fine of baseball's "bad boy" for the commotion he created while his Oakland A's were winning the World Series.

Finley said before the disciplinary action was formally announced, that he would appeal $6,000 of the fines to baseball's seven-man Executive Council. But he balked Monday after Kuhn issued the fine, which included $5,000 for Finley's firing of second baseman Mike Andrews following the second game of the series.

"I don't know what I'm going to do," he said by telephone from his farm in LaPorte, Ind. He said only that "regardless of hell or high water, fines or no fines," the two-time defending champion A's will be back in the World Series "once more in '75."

The fine was the third Kuhn has slapped on Finley since he took the commissioner's office. Kuhn ordered the A's owner to pay $5,000 for asking that Andrews be put on the disabled list after the Oakland second baseman made two crucial errors in the 12-inning second game won by the New York Mets.

Kuhn also fined Finley $1,000 for a public announcement made by Oakland during the opening game regarding the Mets' refusal to allow the A's to add a 25th player to their roster, and $1,000 because Finley asked that the lights be turned on as the A's came to bat in the ninth inning of the second game.

"I have no objections to being fined about the lights," Finley said, adding that he was unaware of a rule permitting the lights to be turned on only at the beginning of an inning.

However, he contested the commissioner's action in the much publicized Andrews incident, in which the A's second baseman left the team for one game after signing a statement saying he was disabled.

"I was fined only because I requested permission to put Andrews on the disabled list," Finley said. "The doctor said Andrews was disabled and the commissioner fines me for asking for a replacement."

When Kuhn refused to declare Andrews disabled, he returned to the team but only made one pinch-hitting appearance during the rest of the series. He said Finley "embarrassed" him into saying he was disabled.

Kuhn said that $1,000 was the normal maximum for a World Series fine but he believed the Andrews incident was beyond the World Series guidelines.

Kuhn fined Finley $5,000 once before—for giving bonuses to Gene Tenace and Joe Rudi for their play in the 1972 World Series—and he also fined him $500 after intervening and settling Finley's contract stalemate with pitcher Vida Blue.

The council to which Finley could appeal the latest fine consists of seven men: the commissioner, the presidents of the two major leagues, and two club representatives from each league.

Time Running Out On San Diego Bid

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The clock may be ready to strike midnight for San Diego's National League baseball franchise.

Gordie Howe Makes the Save

HOUSTON (AP) — Hockey superstar Gordie Howe has yet to score a goal in his new career with the World Hockey Association, but he's still fast on his feet.

As Howe and his wife, Colleen, drove up to a local hotel parking lot following Sunday night's game, Howe saw a young man snatch a girl's purse, jump in a car and drive away.

Howe took off in pursuit, finally forcing the thief to the curb with his own car. The thief tossed the purse out of the window and drove off.

Howe returned the purse to its owner, who was with her boyfriend.

"How can I ever thank you?" asked the girl's escort.

"Well, I'm a player with the Houston Aeros, how about attending some of our games?"

"I won't miss another one," promised the young man.

Lawson Again

NEW YORK (UPI) — Danny Lawson of Vancouver is off to a quick start in his bid to repeat as the leading goal scorer in the World Hockey Association.

Lawson's 11 goals, combined with five assists, gives him a league-leading 16 points.

Around the Pro Grid World

NEW YORK (UPI)—Pro football weekend leftovers:

Kenny Stabler, who wasn't even the No. 1 quarterback for the Oakland Raiders when the season started, turned in an amazing performance against the Baltimore Colts Sunday. He completed 25-of-29 passes for 304 yards and in the process, broke Sammy Baugh's single game percentage mark, set in 1945. Stabler hit 86.1 per cent compared to Baugh's 85.71 and actually may have preserved the record by talking Coach John Madden out of another pass play.

"On the last drive, we had a third-and-eight situation at the 32 and I went over to the sidelines," Stabler explained. "They wanted me to call a play action pass but I said, 'no, let's run a sweep.'" The play went for a touchdown.

Mike Garrett may finally be back in the good graces of San Diego Coach Hal And Sware. Garrett had been benched since a series of early season fumbles but with the Chargers losing five of their first six games and his job on the line, Sware decided to go back to the little speedster. Garrett responded by gaining 130 yards, catching a touchdown pass and setting up two field goals as with the loss of quarterback Terry Bradshaw and running back Franchy Fuqua for a month haven't talked with the Oakland Raiders when the season started, turned in an amazing performance against the Baltimore Colts Sunday. Speaking of Jones, he was one of four stars of the great 1966 Michigan State team to be traded in the last year. Jones went to San Diego from Minnesota. Gene Washington was dealt by the Vikings to Denver. Bubba Smith from Baltimore to Oakland and George Webster from Houston to Pittsburgh.

Bears Coach Abe Giron mockingly credited Chicago writers for his club's victory over Houston. "You guys helped us," the 300-pound coach said. "You got our players all upset. Before the game I couldn't hold them back. They're tired of listening to all that stuff."

Dick Butkus, the veteran star linebacker who could be in his last season, had the first TD of his nine-year career when he recovered a fumble for the Bears in the end zone.

People who feel the Pittsburgh Steelers are in a hole ripped the New York Jets Sunday. "This is the best team I've ever played for and the Charley Johnson is the best quarterback I've ever been behind. You can look for us to make a real run at Oakland in the second half of the season." . . .

Jeff White's debut as a punter Sunday left much to be desired. White, who tried out for five NFL teams in the last two years before finally catching on with New England as a placekicker, was forced into duty as a punter Sunday when Bruce Barnes was hurt. White had a minus-seven yarder as Miami took over on the Patriot three and went in for the touchdown that broke open the game . . .

Roman Gabriel is only 33 but he feels like an old man at Philadelphia. "The last time I remember playing with guys this young was when I was a 10-year-old playing on the sandlots," Gabriel said after engineering a startling upset of Dallas. "I felt like I was 21 today."

Irish, UCLA Gain

NEW YORK (UPI) — Notre Dame and UCLA made the most dramatic gains among the nation's top 10 ranked football teams this week.

The Fighting Irish, ranked seventh a week ago, climbed two places to fifth in the United Press International Board of Coaches ratings released Monday, following their televised 23-14 victory over defending champion Southern California, while UCLA jumped four places to No. 9 after scoring its sixth straight triumph.

As a result of its loss, Southern California dropped five places to No. 10 and the Trojans' chances of repeating as national champion just about vanished.

Ohio State, which stretched its perfect record to 6-0 with a sound 60-0 thrashing of Northwestern, remained in the No. 1 spot for the fifth straight week. The Buckeyes received 22 first place votes and 334 back in the top 20 after being ousted two weeks ago.

Nebraska, which played Oklahoma State to a 17-17 tie, dropped four places to No. 15 while Houston tumbled six notches to No. 16 after losing its first game of the season to Auburn, 7-0.

Texas Tech and Colorado shared the No. 17 spot with Auburn and unbeaten Miami (0-1) rounding out the top 20 in a tie for 19th.

Davidson Quits WHA Position

CHICAGO (UPI) — Gary Davidson, who helped organize the World Hockey Association and the American Basketball Association is into "another sports venture" and has resigned as president of the WHA.

Davidson told WHA owners Monday he was quitting and agreed to serve on a committee to name his successor within "30 to 60 days."

Davidson and six franchise holders last week announced formation of the World Football League. They said they expect to begin play, on midweek nights, in July.

Davidson said he had planned to resign in May when his contract with the WHA expires but he was "involved in another sports venture and I'd like to devote my full time and energies to that."

The WHA has made "fantastic" progress in one year, with more than 5,300 average attendance and a combined operating budget of more than $20 million, Davidson said.

"I feel I will leave it in very good hands," he said. He promised "all the time necessary to maintain the growth and progress of the WHA" until a new league president is found.

Bill Hunter of Edmonton said the WHA trustees accepted Davidson's resignation "with regret" and praised him for "quiet, dedicated, forceful, dynamic and highly aggressive leadership."

James W. Browitt, who had been WHA administrator, was given the title of executive director and now "has broadened authority and will be responsible to the Executive Committee," Davidson said.

A league spokesman said that until a committee selects a new president Browitt will "in essence be running the league."

The committee will consist of Davidson, Nick Mileti of Cleveland, John Bassett of Toronto, Tif Trimble of Vancouver and Howard Baldwin of Boston.

In other business, Baldwin and Hunter were named new members of the executive committee. The trustees also discussed the New York Golden Blades franchise, which has been taken over by the league once, in efforts to work out a way for the present owners to continue operating the team. No decision was reached.

Nobody Gambles In Pro Football

By MILTON RICHMAN

UPI Sports Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—Pro football is going so conservative, it's putting people to sleep. Nobody gambles anymore. Everybody settles for the sure field goal rather than the maybe-maybe-not touchdown. In financial investments, the rule generally is small risk, small return; large risk, large return. Football fans have shown their indifference to the small return, the field goal. When they show up at the ballpark on Sunday, they're not that thrilled by fancy kicking. If they were, they'd go to the ballet instead. The pro football people ought to mull that over a bit.

Charlie Finley is wasting his time appealing his "grossly unfair" fine. Remember a year ago when he also was fined for handing out performance bonuses to some of his ballplayers? He appealed that one, too, and all he got was exercise. The key here is that the vocal Oakland owner can appeal to only one man—the baseball commissioner — and since this is the same man, Bowie Kuhn, who's meting out the fine in the first place, you are perfectly free to draw your own conclusion.

Word from most of the U.S. touring pros returning home is that the best looking golfer overseas is Japan's Masashi "Jumbo" Ozaki. Jumbo's tee shots are one thing, say the returnees, but his touch around the greens is something else.

Dick Williams finally has made it. His hometown in Florida can be approached from three different directions and there's a new sign as you hit the town in each direction which says: Riviera Beach, 33 miles per hour, Home of Dick Williams.

V.J. Armitraj could turn out to be the next superstar of tennis. He's from India, adapts beautifully wherever he plays and no less a judge than Pancho Gonzales advises to keep an eye on him. Gonzales has worked on V.J.'s game, particularly on his concentration. "I have a tendency to let up a little after long points," concedes Armitraj, "but when he's (Gonzales) in the stands, I'll look up and see him make a fist at me. That's his way of telling me to tighten up."

Tony Conigliaro, out of baseball since 1971 because of eye trouble, is toying with the idea of trying a comeback with the California Angels. Tony C. only 28, has been getting in some work with the Angels' affiliate in the Arizona Instructional League.

Lucien Laurin, Secretariat's trainer, tells when he knew he had something special. "The first time he (Secretariat) ran, he got off slow at the gate, so you couldn't really tell much," says Laurin. "The next time he ran though, he came from dead last in a 12-horse field and left them all to win by 8 or 9 lengths. That's when I knew I had a pretty fair horse."

If you're tabbing future major league managers, don't be afraid to take a ticket on Oakland's Sal Bando. He has a manager's turn of mind already, he doesn't try to overwhelm you with all he knows and most important of all—particularly in this day and age—he "enjoys" an excellent relationship with the media. Primarily because he tells the truth and doesn't specialize in snow jobs.

Everybody coming to the Cincinnati Reds these days asks the same thing—Bobby Tolan? He'll go, but not far nothing. The Reds want a starting pitcher in return and they'll probably get one because a lot of other clubs like Tolan well enough to take him off Cincinnati's hands.

Joe Ferguson, the Dodgers' fine young catcher, was an outfielder when he started. He didn't want to make the switch, until Tom Lasorda, now a Dodger coach talk with him.

"Mickey Cochrane was one of the greatest catchers who ever lived. Did you know he was a converted outfielder?" Lasorda asked Ferguson.

"No," replied Ferguson. "Lemme tell you something else." Lasorda went on. "Gabby Hartnett also was a great catcher, and did you know he started out as an outfielder?"

"No," said Ferguson again. "And what about Ernie Lombardi?" Lasorda pushed on. "Did you know he was originally an outfielder?"

Ferguson said no a third time, and then agreed to try catching.

Later, someone said to Lasorda: "Cochrane didn't start out as a outfielder. Neither did Hartnett or Lombardi."

Lasorda never batted an eye. "I know that and you know that," he said to the guy who furnished the information, "but Joe Ferguson doesn't know that."

Saugerties-Arlington Rare Mid-Week Clash

SAUGERTIES at the DCSL championship it completely dominated the affair Wednesday afternoon at 2 p.m. What's going to happen might be switched again. The catch was still alive until Saturday when Arlington, which was 3-1, met Ketcham. After Ketcham had downed the Admirals, 13-8, the losers fell to 3-2 to all but crush their title hopes.

Saugerties, meanwhile, has been up and down, most recently up following a 13-12 victory over Roosevelt Saturday. So Wednesday the teams meet in a rare mid-week kickoff with Arlington having to look forward to yet another game on Saturday while the Sawyers start for the last time until their home finale against Kingston, Nov. 10.

Saugerties won its last game chosen with the catch that if by only one point, but reports one or both teams had a shot are strong that the Sawyers

Report Heavy Bear Kill In Early Upstate Season

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Nearly a dozen bears as deer were shot during the first four days of this year's big game hunting season, state Environmental Conservation Department officials say.

Officials said forty deer and 24 black bears were checked through EnCon stations set up to monitor hunting in the Adirondacks.

Usually many more deer than bear are taken, a department spokesman said. Deer kill in the Tupper Lake and Saranac Lake area was described as very light by hunters, conservation personnel and businessmen who depend on hunters for post-summer vacation trade.

One veteran hunter in the Floodwood Pond area of Franklin County said he and his party of six had been hunting hard since opening day and had not seen one deer.

Only one of the many hunters interviewed in the area said he had seen a doe. A caretaker at a large state campsite said more hunters were camping than ever before, but he had not seen one deer leaving the park. Three black bears were bagged within two miles of his headquarters, however.

A Tupper Lake service station operator said he had not seen any of his customers with deer on their cars as they headed south, but did notice two hunters with bears.

Better deer hunting was reported at Indian Lake in the central Adirondacks. However, at Speculator, south of Indian Lake and a popular hunting area, the deer take was described as very light.

There has been no snow in the Adirondacks since the big game season opened October 25, and dry weather made walking through the leaves noisy, giving game plenty of warning.

Many bears killed were taken in and around garbage dumps used by campers and summer residents.

The Encon hunting forecast was cautiously optimistic for deer hunters this season because of the easy winter New York experienced last year.

For most hunters in the Adirondacks, the only game seen were flocks of Canadian geese in perfect "V" formation, honking their way south.

Rain Cancels Soccer Games

Rain had delayed Coleman High School's expected title clinching in the Ulster County Athletic League soccer race.

The Statesmen were to have played at Fallsburgh Monday. A win would have eliminated the Comets and given Coleman permanent possession of first place. Instead, the postponement of the game until Friday, so the race, barring an unexpected upset of Fallsburgh by New Paltz Wednesday, will go down to the final day.

The other two UCAL games scheduled for Monday also were postponed. New Paltz will now play at Onteora on Friday, while Rondout takes on Pine Bush today.

Byron Cordero, one of three surefire All-Mid-Hudson Conference and All-America nominees on the squal, leads the undefeated Ulster County Community College soccer squad with 23 points after 12 games. He has booted home 14 goals to go with nine assists.

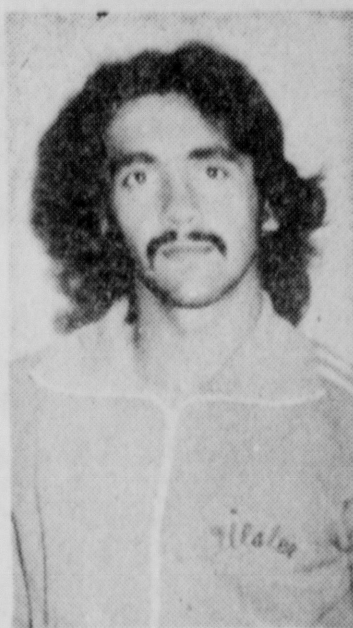

Runnerup to Cordero is freshman sensation Mario Oliva, who is also certain to draw all-star nominations on three levels, with 14 points on 10 goals and four assists.

Others in the top seven include Kurt Nedrick, 7-6-13; Mario Isaac, 5-3-10; Walter Elliott, 3-4-7; Don LaSoto, 5-2-7; James Hepburn, 2-5-7; Mark Chapentier, the Senators' brilliant goalie, another All-America nominee, has yielded only eight goals in 12 games, three on penalty kicks. He is credited with 84 saves.

Ulster, 12-0 on the season and repeat champions in the Mid-Hudson Conference, close out their 1973 campaign with two of the toughest games on the schedule. Both are "home" contests, against powerful Staten Island Thursday and Bronx Community Saturday at New Paltz.

These two games could be our toughest of the season," said Coach George Vizvary. "Staten Island is undefeated but has two ties. They have always been tough for us and we can expect another rugged Ulster game."

Ulster will have no excuses if it loses either of its remaining games. The squad is at full strength 19 players—for the first time in several weeks.

The fact that the Mid-Hudson Conference crown has been wrapped up is not likely to cause any letdown among the Senators. "We still have the Region XV tournament coming up," said Vizvary, "and, of course, our major objective since the start of the season has been a trip to the nationals."

The 1973 National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) Soccer Championships will be held Nov. 21-24 at Miami-Dade Community College in north Miami, Florida.

Hoople Picks The Sawyers

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE

HOOPLE MANOR
Surprise! You are no doubt pleasantly surprised to see my smiling face looking upon you on this fine Tuesday afternoon rather than on the usual Wednesday and Friday tricks — kaff-kaff.

First a quick recap. Saturday my hot streak continued with five correct selections and two just slightly misjudged. That makes my season's record 36-11-1. Absolutely beautiful, har-rumph!

My purpose here today is to reveal the winner of Wednesday's Saugerties - Arlington game, something my Sawyer friends are probably dying to hear since I've been on the button six times out of six this season with Saugerties. And since I believe in making things short but sweet — heh-heh — here's the way I see this important game:

SAUGERTIES 14, ARLINGTON 8.
The Sawyers played one of their best games last week against Roosevelt and I think they'll be better prepared for a strange mid-week game than will Arlington, which lost a key contest to Ketcham. If the Admirals throw, and you know they will, Saugerties will be ready for them. And I think the Sawyers can move against Arlington on the ground. This could be a laugher, but seeing that I respect Kelly's potential, I'll stick to a relatively close score.

Amos B. Hoople

Westfield Blanks Hawks

NEW PALTZ
Powerful Westfield, Mass., State scored six times in the first half, then coasted home after intermission to post a 9-0 non-conference soccer victory over New Paltz State here Monday.

The New Englanders, always one of the top teams in their region, outshot the Hawks, 29-7, and capitalized on New Paltz' continually undermanned squad. "They were a good club," said New Paltz Coach Bob Durkin. "Of course we were short-handed and it might have been a different story if we were at full strength."

Durkin pointed out that Westfield had beaten Castleton State, 2-0, earlier in the season, the same score by which New Paltz topped Castleton when the Hawks had a full team.

KINGSTON

Peter Corsones of Kingston has played all but two games for the Princeton University soccer Tigers who are 5-0-1 and given a good chance to win the Ivy League title. He made one start in the nets for Old Nassau and shut out Haverford, 3-0, making 10 saves in the bargain.

A junior goaltender, Corsones is a Kingston High School graduate. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Peter Corsones of Kingston.

Rick Sorenson of Kingston has started every game at quarterback for Bethany College at Bethany, West Va. The Bisons are 3-3 overall and 2-3 in the President's Athletic Conference (PAC). Rick has completed 27 of 76 passes for 465 yards, with three touchdowns and eight interceptions.

Bill Kremp of Kingston is being rated with the all-time Marist College freshmen runners. A former top-ranking Maroon runner, Kremp had career marks of 2:08 in the 880, mile, 4:47 and two miles.

The latest Region XV soccer report had Ulster County Community College unbeaten at 11-0 (now it's 12-0) and two departmental leaders, with Byron Cordero leading the individuals with 13 goals and goalie Marc Chapentier pacing the goaltenders with 82 saves and only seven goals allowed. Maurice Taylor of the crack Queensborough team is runnerup in goals with 12 and Cordero's teammate, Mario Oliva third with 10. Coach Ace of Farmingdale commented after the recent Queensborough-Farmingdale game:

"Queensborough is out of sight!" Hasn't this guy seen Ulster in action?

A belated reply to Eric Keyser, who revives an old myth that we are an old hardnosed baseball buff, who is annoyed by softball. Not true. We recognize softball as a fast growing, tremendously popular sport (slow pitch, that is). We just happen to be trapped by age and habit yearning for a return to the romantic era when young met played baseball and middle-aged men got their kicks from softball.

The proper rebuttal, we suppose, is to ask where can young men play baseball anymore. In what league and at what diamonds? Good question, we submit.

"Despite your dislike for this game," writes Keyser, "even though I respect your opinion, may I point out a few facts which you may or may not be aware of: 1. Almost anyone can play (slow pitch) softball; 2. It's a fast game; 3. Not everyone is good enough to play baseball, thus many softball players would have to find another activity; 4. More people can play and more games can be played in always shrinking areas; 5. You don't have to be young; 7. It's a good form of exercise."

Keyser goes on to say. "Granted, I like baseball as much as the next person, but softball is proving to be a much more prosperous sport with solid fan backing, something baseball isn't capable of generating in this area."

"Also," Keyser concludes, "I'm sure the difference of 30 feet in the basepaths has nothing to do with the big interest in softball and the lack of it in hardball."

Onteora High School's famed marching band, undefeated in the UCAL and strictly college level, has been invited to do the halftime ceremonies at the Coast Guard Academy game at New London, Conn. on Nov. 17.

The Indians have made previous appearances at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point and Upsala College in New Jersey. Maurice Hall of High Falls is a sophomore defensive tackle with the Princeton University football team. A graduate of Rondout Valley Central High, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hall Sr. of High Falls.

Population-wise, Kingston High is the biggest school in the Dutchess County Scholastic League with a 1973-74 enrollment of 2,116. Rondout Valley Central High leads the Ulster County Athletic League registration with 972 students.

The DCSL figures in descending order: Kingston, 2,116; John Jay, 1,958; Ketcham, 1,913; Arlington, 1,540; Poughkeepsie, 1,531; Roosevelt, 1,164; Beacon, 1,020; Lourdes, 902; Saugerties 861.

The UCAL breakdown: Rondout 972; Pine Bush, 835; Wallkill, 702; Onteora, 664; New Paltz 655; Marlboro 613; Highland 595; Red Hook 500; Liberty 451; Ellenville 400.

Total registration in the DCSL is 13,105, with 6,387 in the DCSL.

Faerber's reference is to the portal draining the Schoharie Reservoir which dumps tons of silt into the Esopus every year. "Without first cleaning up the portal, reducing the limit to five fish would be useless," Faerber argued. "The DEC proposal is the easy way out. The portal problem is so big the DEC can't handle it."

Bill Kelly, a DEC fish biologist, proposed the limit on trout in the Esopus be reduced from 10 to five for every angler. Supporting this were spokesmen for Trout Unlimited who maintained that such a reduction would improve fishing and improve quality of the fish. They also claimed it would help produce larger trout.

Faerber, however, was unconvinced. "The statistics they presented were from the years 1963, 64, and 65. There is no newer data on the Esopus, and this is too old to establish new regulations by," he said. "The only thing the data did show is that the approximate trout take per person is only two."

Faerber went on to say that only ten per cent of fishermen actually bag the limit of ten fish, and that of that group a certain number did so out of economic need.

The City of New York, the owner of the reservoir, is Faerber's target. He felt if public opinion would rise behind his claims, then the DEC would be swung to take action against the city.

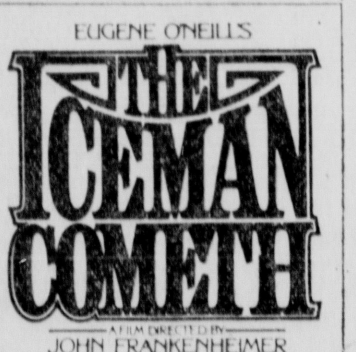

"First the portal should be checked for cave-ins," Faerber said, "and if that's all right then the reservoir itself is the problem. The west basin of the reservoir right now is 50 per cent full of mud." Faerber did not know how extensive an operation would be required to clean up the Schoharie, but he noted the City of New York would "foot the bill."

"We have the goods on the city," Faerber stated citing water tests and a film presentation on the pollution problem assembled by the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs. "It's just a matter of time of whether people will understand the problem before it's too late. We don't want to lose any more land to reservoirs."

"Once that was solved," he concluded, "then it might be wise to study the effects and reconsider the limit on fish."

WOODSTOCK
Joan Huber of Kingston, a once-a-week bowlers, struck a blow for non-believers (in practice) when she defeated Peggy Moffett, 177-170, to capture the second annual Kingston Woman's Bowling Association 600 Club championship Sunday at Woodstock Lanes.

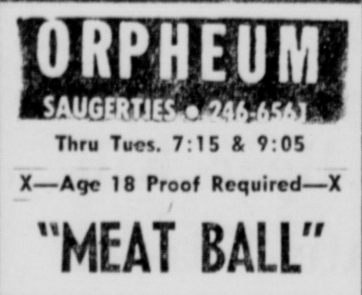

Mrs. Huber, who had rolled only six games this season prior to Sunday's tournament, revealed that for the past several seasons she has limited her bowling to one weekly session in the Starlighters League. And with virtually no practice.

"After all these years, I really don't need any practice," she says. She supports her theory by pointing out that she has achieved averages as high as 168 and 171 in the Starlighters. All with a 14-pound, nine ounce ball, conventional grip and standard four-step delivery.

Mrs. Huber rallied from a 21-pin deficit as a result of two consecutive splits at the start of the game to overhaul and then pass Mrs. Moffett with eight consecutive fills of 20 pins. In a match decided by less than a mark, the fill were crucial.

Mrs. Moffett, who gained the finals by defeating Betty Lamoreux, 147-133 in the semi-final round, opened with strike-spare, then ran into a split in the third frame. Mrs. Huber spared after two splits and trailed 38-17 at the end of two and 47-37 at the end of three frames.

Neither bowler was able to bag a double, but Mrs. Huber picked up four consecutive strikes on the right lane (No. 4) and added spared each time on No. 3 for the eight straight 20-fills. Mrs. Moffett had only two strikes and drew the 5-7 split in the sixth frame.

Mrs. Huber survived the first round cut with a two-game total of 355, then added 201, 178 and 158 for a six-game total of 1069 and 178 average. Mrs. Moffett totalled 1016, with 169 average. A league bowler since the early 1950s, Mrs. Huber achieved career high average of 171 in the Starlighters. Her career highs are 256 and 631 Lamoreux 133.

Returning Lead Takes a Thought

By Oswald and James Jacoby

ACCUSED: (Q.) Mrs. Smith is 21 and divorced. She thinks her ex-husband who is 22 likes me I don't know why. I have never even seen him. But she told Kenny I had been having dates with him.

That is not true. Just the same, Kenny told Stan about it. Kenny and Stan are friends and Stan is my boy friend. Now Stan is very mad at me. He halfway believes what Mrs. Smith said.

I told him it was a lie and asked him if he wanted to break up. He said he wasn't sure. Please help me!—15 in California.

(A.) As your steady boy friend, Stan must know you better than he does Mrs. Smith. If he can't fully believe you when you tell the clean truth, yet can halfway believe Mrs. Smith when she tells a sick lie, then he doesn't seem to be the right boy friend for you.

Let him go. And live in such a way that no reasonable person could believe such a lie about you as Mrs. Smith told.

POPULAR: (Q.) I have been going with Cathy for about six months, but since school started I always see her talking to these older guys. She has been so busy I have hardly said anything more than "hi" to her in a week.

She says she likes me, and she goes out with me when I ask her for a date. What should I do?—16 in Wisconsin.

(A.) Cathy is turning into a popular girl. If I wanted to continue as her boy friend I would talk to her more (on the phone, too), and maybe ask her for a date more frequently.

Decisive Win for Liberals in Quebec

QUEBEC CITY — (UPI) — Quebec voted Monday to reject separation from Canada, returning the Liberal party government of Premier Robert Bourassa to power with 101 of the 110 seats in the provincial assembly and 55 per cent of the popular vote.

Prime Minister Elliott P. Trudeau, a strong anti-separatist, said in Ottawa that "if this were a referendum federalism would have won the day and we wouldn't hear any more about separatism. There will be other elections in the future, however. In four years Quebec goes to the polls again."

Premier Bourassa, 40, told a wildly cheering crowd of supporters after the election that the Liberal's landslide victory was "a victory of strength, and without doubt a common sense."

He said that during his first four-year term in office the Liberals "had accomplished important things in many domains" and the vote Monday indicated "an approval of our adhesion to federalism, an approval of economic development, because true strength has as its basis economic strength, and without doubt a approval of the main objective of the Liberal party."

Bourassa was the only party leader to be re-elected. René Lévesque, leader of the separatist Parti Québécois, was defeated, along with Gabriel Loeb of the Union Nationale and Yvon Dupuis of the Parti Créditiste, the two minor parties.

The unofficial returns gave the Liberals the strongest legislative majority in over 50 years and the biggest popular vote in 11 years. Even the most optimistic Liberals had not expected more than 80 seats.

The separatists managed to increase their popular vote from 23 per cent of the total to 30 per cent, but they won only seven seats, the same as they did in their first election in 1970.

With 2,702,495 votes counted, 95 per cent of the total, the Liberals had 1,513,897 and the Parti Québécois had 836,752. The right-wing Parti Créditiste received 288,050 ballots, 10 per cent of the total, winning only two seats, and the once-powerful Union Nationale, with 147,140, elected no one.

Reinforced Naval Forces

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Both the United States and Soviet Union are operating beefed-up naval forces in the Mediterranean, and the United States sent an aircraft carrier task force into the Indian Ocean.

But the Pentagon said there was no sign of any naval confrontation developing between the two superpowers. Sources called the U.S. moves "precautionary."

The entry of the carrier Hancock, five destroyers and an oiler to the Indian Ocean, a move which began during last week's alert of U.S. forces, marked the first time since the 1971 war between India and Pakistan that a U.S. carrier task force had operated in those waters.

"The movement of the Hancock is not related in any way to movements of the Soviet fleet in the Mediterranean," said Defense Department spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim Monday. "The secretary of defense said Friday we were a long way from a confrontation with the Soviets. We are even further from any such confrontation today."

U.S. officials said privately that Hancock's mission in the Indian Ocean was primarily to demonstrate the right of the United States to use the Straits of Malacca, which the United States considers international waters, and to operate in the Indian Ocean even during times of tension in the Middle East.

The Indian Ocean is an important route for shipments of Middle East oil, particularly to Japan.

Friedheim said the U.S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean had been reinforced during the alert with a third aircraft carrier, the John F. Kennedy, and a number of other ships. He said its total strength was about 60 ships, some 15 more than normal.

Since October 6, when the Middle East war began, the Soviet Mediterranean fleet had been reinforced by some 30 ships, giving it an unprecedented 90.

Friedheim said the Russians currently had a normal force of about 20 ships in the Indian Ocean, about half of their warships and the rest research vessels.

Central Europe Cutback Plan

VIENNA (UPI) — The United States and its Western allies have agreed on a balanced East-West troop cutback plan in Central Europe starting with a partial pullout of American and Soviet forces next year, defense sources said today.

The sources said the proposal would be unveiled at a conference on troop reductions opening today in the Austrian capital less than a week after Moscow and Washington pulled back from the brink of confrontation in the Middle East.

The defense sources said the allied plan at the Conference on Mutual Reduction of Forces and Armaments and Associated Measures in Central Europe calls for proportionately larger Communist troop cutbacks.

The sources said the proposal requires Warsaw Pact forces to be reduced to the same level as outnumbered Western troops. They said the plan envisages a tentative ceiling of some 700,000 men for each side.

The authoritative International Institute of Strategic Studies in London has estimated Western forces in the region at 777,000 and Eastern troops at 871,000.

The sources said the plan, if accepted, would enable the United States to pull up to 30,000 men out of Europe in the first phase.

Belfast Killing

BELFAST (UPI) — A 34-year-old Roman Catholic man was shot dead in the town of Banbridge Monday night by gunmen who knocked on his front door and then fired four bullets into his chest.

Police said the dead man, who was not identified, was the father of three children. Banbridge is a small town 20 miles south of Belfast.

The killing, the third in 24 hours, raised to 896 the total number of dead in four years of violence in the British province of Northern Ireland.

The man killed was the third Roman Catholic attacked in violence late Monday.

Police said they feared a new spate of vengeance killings by Protestant extremists angered by an offensive by the militant provisional wing of the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA).

A grenade and bullet attack on a bar in downtown Lurgan, 20 miles southwest of Belfast, injured two Roman Catholics. Police said both attacks could be the work of Protestant extremists.

"All the victims, or intended victims, of the night's attack were Catholic and coming so close on the heels of the renewed IRA offensive the attacks give rise to the theory that Protestant organizations have set on a campaign of reprisal," a police spokesman said.

Reds Seen Preparing New Viet Offensive

SAIGON (UPI) — The South Vietnamese government said today it appeared certain Communist forces were preparing to launch a new offensive at the end of this year or early in 1974. It indicated government troops may attack first.

Bui Bao Truc, a government spokesman, told correspondents for Vietnamese newspapers "with all their efforts in all Four Corps areas, it is certain that the Communists are preparing for a new offensive. I cannot divulge the day and time," he said. "But President Nguyen Van Thieu has given orders to counterattack by all means."

A reporter asked Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, spokesman for the South Vietnamese command, why government troops did not attack first. Hien replied, "We haven't yet, but that doesn't mean we won't."

On the war front, Hien reported 104 truce violations in the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m.
